71ST CONGRESS CLOSES SESSION BY FILIBUSTER

Thomas, of Oklahoma, Holds Floor as Hoover Signs Few Bills.

PRESIDENT SMILES AS TUMULT IS ENDED

G. O. P. Chieftain, Watson, Commended by Chief Executive.

(Picture on Page Two.)

(Associated Press.)

The Seventy-first Congress passed into history yesterday with the tumult and contention of its two years' existence prevailing to the end.

President Hoover, who took office two years ago yesterday with this Congress came back to the Capitol to sign some of the measures to get through the filibuster-bound Senate and the weary House.

He smiled broadly as the nine months' congressional recess began at noon and seemed unperturbed that the Senate filibuster had refused to permit even the appointment of the customary committee to notify him formally of the adjournment.

The $20,800,000 veterans hospital construction measure with a $5,000,000 appropriation to start it was all the major legislation that emerged in the closing hours. Mr. Hoover signed it.

Thomas Holds Floor.

In the Senate, Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, stubbornly held the floor in the last three hours of the Senate session.

The chief legislative accomplishments of the session—$65,000,000 in drought relief loans and $500,000,000 in Federal construction to aid employment—long since had been enacted.

Snapping off all entreaties, the tall Oklahoma senator resolutely refused to yield the floor to the exasperated Senate as he sought unsuccessfully to obtain a vote on the resolution ordering a Senate inquiry into the oil industry.

In his hour at the Capitol, President Hoover remained in the presidential room just off the Senate chamber, where his policies have met consistent opposition from a dominant group of Republican Independents and the Democrats since the opening of the special session he called for tariff revision and farm relief at the outset of his administration.

It was a smile of obvious relief that spread over the President's countenance as well as over the faces of the worn Senate Republican leaders as Mr. Hoover received them. He congratulated Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican chieftain.

Favors Hospital Bill.

Finally accepting the Senate's hospitalization bill, the House turned to farewell ceremonies for its almost three score departing Republican members who lost in the last election.

But there was a thought of the future in the closing moments as Speaker Longworth in response to a demonstration of confidence conceded that the closely divided House to take office in December might choose a Democratic speaker. So close is the division resulting from the last election that Mr. Longworth said the choice of the next speaker "lies with an all-wise providence."

The Senate filibuster killed the

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The general reaction of the country at the final adjournment of the Congress will be one of relief. When the people are in distress legislation always reflects their condition. In the National Government this inconsistently took the form of spending money. Temporary help for the needy may have been justified but large expenditures only delay business recovery. Normal income taxes are already 1 per cent higher than last year and a prospective deficit threatens a large increase in taxes. New debts seem impending.

The Congress threw away a great opportunity to help the people. If it had granted all necessary relief and then by a policy of rigid economy reduced Government costs, avoided a deficit and more debt, the country would have looked on it as a savior.

Politics is always present. Probably there were those who thought they would profit politically by being able to charge that business is bad and taxes and debt have been increased. Those making that charge in the future will have to explain what constructive measures they proposed to revive business, promote economy and reduce taxes and debt. Those voting for the largest peace-time expenditures any Congress ever authorized can not escape responsibility.

Hoover Praises Naval Pact of France, Italy

Congratulation of World Is Now in Order, Says President of U. S.

Practical Parity Gained and Annual Tonnage Is Cut to 21,000.

(Associated Press.)

The Franco-Italian naval agreement was praised yesterday by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson in the first formal comment by United States officials since the accord was reached.

In a formal statement the Chief Executive said it was "a matter for congratulation in the whole world."

A little later Secretary Stimson indicated at a press conference the agreement would be satisfactory to the United States.

President Hoover's statement said:

"The Franco-Italian naval settlement marks the completion of the work which began two years ago in naval reduction and the ending of competition in naval construction among the five leading naval powers.

"Throughout the long-continued process toward the completion of this plan, the cause of disarmament has been fortunate in the devotion and

Rome, March 4 (A.P.).—Italy gains practical parity of construction with France over the next five years under the terms of the British-Franco-Italian naval accord as disclosed unofficially here today, and in 1936 when the accord expires will be in a better position relative to France than she is today.

The principle of parity which broke up the London conference so far as Italy and France were concerned is not settled by the new accord, but is postponed until 1936.

Meanwhile naval construction programs are put on a practical level and so harmonized as to guarantee each country against surprise and to permit accurate check on annual tonnage laid down. The annual programs are reduced from more than 40,000 tons to an average between 21,000 and 22,000.

Italy made some sacrifices, the terms of the agreement show, but she

SOLDIER IS JAILED AS HIT-RUN KILLER

H. A. Blucher Confesses to Fatally Injuring Man on February 13.

Harold Augustus Blucher, 22-year-old soldier, was stopped by a policeman late Tuesday night for going through a red light at Minnesota and Pennsylvania avenues southeast. Today he faces a charge of manslaughter.

Private C. F. Smith carried the case through from the discovery that the car's hood was dented and both headlight lenses were missing, to a signed confession, said to have been made last night by the soldier, in which he admits having driven away after striking and fatally injuring Edward T. Ryan, 51, on February 13.

Ryan, who died soon after the accident, which occurred at Anacostia road and N street southeast, lay unidentified for a day until a deputy coroner, recalling that the victim looked like a man he had seen at a relative's house, solved his identity. He lived at 712 F street southwest.

The soldier could produce no driver's permit or registration card when stopped, Smith said. Asked to explain why there were no lenses in his headlights, Blucher replied that one had been broken so he had removed the other. This he produced from the inside of his car.

Subsequent investigation disclosed that the glass in the "depressed beam" lens which Blucher turned over corresponded with fragments which were found at the scene of the accident.

Smith's grilling which began after the soldier was taken to the Eleventh Precinct Station Tuesday night to be held for investigation culminated in the confession. In it Blucher retracted his alleged statement that the car belonged to an aunt whose name he had refused to divulge, admitting that on the night

Senate in New Mexico Adopts Liquor Measure

Santa Fe, N. Mex., March 5 (A.P.).—Without debate the New Mexico Senate today adopted a favorable report on the proposed State liquor dispensary bill.

The measure, holding that the eighteenth amendment and State constitution do not prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor by a State, proposes to put New Mexico into the business of dispensing whisky, wine and beer to permit holders, with the products to be made in a State distillery.

In today's voting one senator did not vote and three were absent.

VOTE REFORM BILL PASSED IN ENGLAND

Alternative Plan Adopted; Commons' Action Is Held Greatest Since 1832.

London, March 4 (A.P.).—The British House of Commons wrote history tonight in passing, almost on the centennial of the great reform acts of 1832, the alternative vote clause in the government's electoral reform bill revising English voting methods.

Although it was opposed by the Conservatives with one of their heaviest votes of the present session, the clause was carried by the Liberals and Laborites with a vote of 277 to 251—a margin of 26. Twelve Labor left-wingers abstained and 20 Liberals were absent.

It was on March 2, 1831, that the first bill was introduced in commons which culminated a year later in reform acts that unfettered the House of Commons, mother of parliaments.

Although widely used in Australia, alternative voting radically alters the scheme of British elections and is regarded as the greatest change since the great reform acts. It operates by each voter making a first choice of his ballot, and then indicating a second choice.

In a three-cornered race if the leading candidate fails to get a clear majority over the man in second place, the votes of the third candidate which are specified as second choice for either of the others will be counted for the man indicated. This makes it possible for the second high man to move out the leader on the basis of second choices.

It was this point that appealed to the Liberals, for they hope thereby to gain seats in many constituencies where at present they run second.

The conservatives charged the bill resulted from a "trade" between David Lloyd George and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, whereby labor supported the electoral bill to repay the Liberals for their aid in the trade disputes measure and others. The trade disputes bill now is dead, having been withdrawn by the Government yesterday.

But despite the success of tonight's coalition, the electoral bill is still distant from the statute books. The House of Lords, which is ever jealous of the commons' power, is the principal obstacles, and if the peers refuse to concur in the measure it will be returned to the commons.

The Government has agreed, if the bill carries, not to apply it until after dissolution of parliament. This eliminates the possibility that by-elections pending would see the system in operation.

Lost Faith in Vivian Gordon Causes Daughter's Suicide

16-Year-Old Girl Dreamed of Her Mother as Broadway's Dancing Idol; Rude Awakening to Sordid Facts of Crime Brought on Self-Destruction.

Audubon, N. J., March 4 (U.P.).—The bubble-like collapse of her dream that her mother was a beautiful Broadway dancer, who for some reason she never could see, caused Benita Bischoff, 16, a week ago a happy high school freshman, to kill herself, the United Press learned tonight.

For nine years this had gone on—since Benita's mother left home. Benita heard stories of her mother, stories to which she added in imagination. Then last week she learned the sordid truth. Her mother was everything bad—one of the most debased figures in the debased Broadway underworld.

Benita mourned for a few days. Then, quite deliberately—after first deciding to change her name—she decided to die. She went home while her stepmother was out and turned on the gas in the kitchen range. She died a few minutes after she was found.

It was Benita's diary that told the story—poignant little bits that seemed to drip with blood from her heart. A few extracts from it have been published. Mr. Bischoff said tonight that the remainder never would be known. He intends, he said, to bury it with her.

This is the way the diary went—"February 28—What an awful mess

PEACE RETURNS TO INDIA AFTER YEAR OF STRIFE

Gandhi Signs Agreement With Lord Irwin at New Delhi.

TRUCE CELEBRATED THROUGHOUT REALM

Mahatma Will Resume Life of Prayer and Study in Ashram Colony.

New Delhi, India, March 4 (A.P.).—When India awoke this morning it found peace on its doorstep.

Overnight Mahatma Gandhi, with the vision of a prophet had led his invisible sleeping multitudes from the precipice of war to the path of peace. By agreeing to forget and forgive the past he won the confidence of Viceroy Lord Irwin, who less than a year ago jailed the mystic agitator for challenging the authority of the British Empire, and an accord was reached which ended the year-old civil disobedience movement.

Nationalist circles naturally regard today's truce as a triumph of Gandhi's doctrine of nonviolence which, as Rabindranath Tagore said, introduced a new technique into international revolution.

Famous March to Sea.

Now the truce will allow the Mahatma to return to his Ashram colony at Ahmedabad, which he left a year ago on his famous march to the sea for the making of salt, vowing he would never return thence until India gained self-government. With the future looking as promising as it does now, he can return to his quiet life of meditation, study and prayer.

As Gandhi walked the six miles from the old delhi to the new through the morning mists today he was followed by hundreds of workmen who had dropped their tools at the sight of him. It was exactly noon when he reached the vice regal palace. Five minutes later his signature had put into effect an armistice. He shook hands with Lord Irwin, and the broken friendship between Great Britian and India was reunited.

As the little leader emerged triumphantly shortly afterward the bells of the Hindu temples by a striking coincidence were heralding the holi festival—or the advent of spring and peace, when the entire Hindu world proclaims itself to be in peace and harmony with all mankind.

News Travels Fast.

News of the truce flew all over India as if on wings, causing the natives to observe this day as a double holiday. Their rejoicings took the form of covering themselves with the seven colors of spring, which is one of the greatest Hindu ceremonial rites.

Gandhi later returned to the viceroy's palace and took immediate measures toward calling off civil disobedience, which in its single year has caused the British empire almost more trouble than all the previous Indian revolts and mutinies combined.

JURY CONVICTS DAUGHERTY OF BANK FRAUDS

Former Head of Defunct Institution Found Guilty on Five Counts.

SENTENCE AWAITS NEW TRIAL HEARING

Panel Takes One Ballot in Reaching Verdict on Ohio Financier.

Washington Court House, Ohio, March 4 (A.P.).—Mal S. Daugherty, 68-year-old banker and brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, tonight stood convicted of defrauding the defunct Ohio State Bank while he was its president.

His trial, which started three weeks ago, ended late today when the jury found the former banker guilty of all five counts in the indictment. Each count carries a maximum penalty of 30 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Sentence will not be imposed until the court acts on a new trial motion which defense counsel said would be filed in a few days.

Jury Takes One Ballot.

A poll of the jurors showed they took only one ballot. They deliberated from noon until about 6 o'clock, with an hour and fifteen minutes for lunch. Aside from nervousness resulting from the long wait, Daugherty showed no emotion as the decision was read.

Delay of almost two hours was caused when Judge Charles Bell, of Cincinnati, twice sent the jury back to correct a legal error. It was learned they had used the word "offense" in describing the five counts instead of the plural offenses.

The judge was prohibited by law from explaining the nature of the error and the jurors had to reread the written charge to complete the verdict.

Five Counts of Charges.

The five counts in the indictment charge abstraction of funds, misapplication of the bank's credit, falsification of entries, an attempt to deceive a bank examiner and the making of an invalid loan.

Neither Daugherty nor his attorneys made any statement after the verdict.

The investigation that led to the indictment of Daugherty was ordered last fall, after he was declared a bankrupt with assets of $300,000 and liabilities of more than $600,000. The grand jury returned sixteen indictments, but Daugherty was tried on only one. The Ohio State Bank failed on May 12, 1930.

A crowd that packed the courthouse during the final day of the trial dispersed quietly after the verdict. They had been warned against any demonstration.

Continues at Liberty.

Pending hearing of the new trial motion, Daugherty will continue at liberty under $40,000 bond posted by his aged mother, who died last week, and his brother, Harry M. Daugherty.

John Ferrill, a farmer, testified that he signed two blank checks for Daugherty. The evidence showed

Use of New Narcotic Reported Spreading

Cigarettes Containing Marijuana Entering Nation; Wickersham Commission Hears Gangsters Are Using Heroin Widely.

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that the use of a new drug—Marijuana, of the hashish family—is spreading over the United States and that the gangster use of heroin presents a new danger was laid by narcotic experts yesterday before the Wickersham commission.

Nearly a dozen members of the New York narcotic survey and the world conference on narcotic education lodged a plea with the commission to investigate the drug situation and present recommendations to Congress for curtailing all nonmedical use.

Earlier the commission, with all but one of its eleven members present for the first time this year, plunged into the delayed work of completing its far-flung survey of crime.

Approval was given to the first of the ten reports to be made, a survey of "statistics of crime and criminal justice," preparde by Dean Roscoe Pound, of Harvard University. It soon will be submitted ot President Hoover.

The commission declined to accept finally, however, a survey upon criminal prosecutions, directed by Monte Lemann, New Orleans lawyer, the sole member of the commission not to sign its prohibition report. The survey was turned back for the addition of more data.

Testimony upon the introduction into this country and Europe of marijuana, a type of Mexican hemp, used principally in cigarettes, was laid before the commission by Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, one of the heroes of the Spanish-American war.

"The drug can be grown anywhere," Hobson said, "and when smoked in small quantities produces a feeling of physical exhilaration. In excess, however, it motivates the most atrocious acts. Even more serious is the present use of heroin.

"Investigation has definitely established its widespread use by gangsters and criminals, not by those who plan the crimes but by the thugs selected to commit them. Usually the man selected is a heroin addict, and once he is given this drug, touched up with a bit of cocaine, he has no pity, no fear, and is a desperate man."

Charles H. Tuttle, former New York district attorney and Republican nominee for governor, testified an investigation of 426 successive arrests by the narcotic division of the New York police disclosed that only 197 were without previous police or criminal records.

Tuttle said the remaining 349 had been apprehended altogether a total of 2,985 times, with their individual apprehensions varying between 2 to 38 prior arrests.

SMITH SEES FIELD DAY FOR PARTY TODAY WITH HARMONY AS LAST NOTE

POLI'S WALL PULLED DOWN

The giant proscenium arch of Poli's Theater as it toppled into the orchestra pit of the historic playhouse yesterday. A charge of dynamite weakened the wall but failed to shake it loose and it was finally pulled down by workmen with a steel cable passed through numerous blocks and tackle.

National Committee Is Ready for Battle on Problems.

SUGGESTION TO SHIFT DRY LAW IS RUMORED

Former New York Executive Denies Splitting With Gov. Roosevelt.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The strategists of the party of Jefferson and Jackson—the committeemen and the committeewoman of the various States who form the Democratic National Committee—will meet at the Mayflower Hotel this morning for what former Gov. Alfred E. Smith expects to be a "field day."

The prospect is that the meeting will start out in a business-like fashion, develop a row here and there in the course of the day, and then wind up in something approximating a love feast.

Evidently something has been done to head off any lasting bitterness, because last night the word went out from those in the party's inner circle that harmony would be the final note of the meeting.

Complete Harmony Unlikely.

Nobody expects complete harmony. Certainly former Gov. Smith does not.

"Whenever there is complete harmony in the Democratic party," he said yesterday, "I am going to get suspicious. Tomorrow is going to be a field day."

When John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, issued his call for today's meeting, he said the meeting was for the purpose of pointing to the party's accomplishments and of discussing "future policies and finances."

Meanwhile, a rumor was circulated that Chairman Raskob planned to have the committee go on record as being in favor of a change in the prohibition law. Raskob himself has never revealed what his plans were.

One of two things may happen:

Change in Dry Law.

The committee may be asked to transmit to the next Democratic national convention a resolution suggesting a change in the prohibition law, or Chairman Raskob may decide to let the oratory at the meeting—that is, what Al Smith calls the "record"—speak for itself.

In any event, all the men and women who are here for the meeting are striving to make it appear to the country that there is no internicine quarrel in the Democratic party.

Whether the passing on to the national convention of a resolution urging a dry-law change would be regarded as committing the Democratic national committee is a question that might likely stir up a quarrel.

Power Over Policies.

On the one hand, it might be argued that the national committee has no power to fix party policies; that this simply would be putting the question up to the body, that does fix party policies—the national convention itself.

On the other hand, it might be argued that the adoption of a motion to pass such a resolution on to the convention would be tantamount to saying that the national committee itself is in favor of a change.

Such action, in the opinion of many of those attending the meeting, not only would be premature, but would stir up a quarrel that would place the party in a bad light.

Smith Is For Change.

Consequently those who feel that way would rather that the alternative plan—the plan for letting the record speak for itself—be adopted.

If former Gov. Smith is called upon to speak his mind, he is prepared to say that he thinks a majority of Americans are in favor of a change in the prohibition law. He said that much in a press conference yesterday.

If former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, another former Democratic presidential nominee, is called upon, he is prepared to say the same thing. Mr.

SALESMAN SHOOTS SELF IN HOTEL HERE

Leaves Note to Daughter, Saying "Margaret" Is Her Mother.

Penning a cryptic note revealing to his daughter the identity of her mother, Leo D. Shire, 58-year-old traveling salesman, made an attempt to take his life by firing a .32 caliber bullet into his skull yesterday morning in his room at the Hamilton Hotel.

Virtually no hope was held for his recovery. At Emergency Hospital, where he was rushed a few minutes after hotel attendants ran to his room at the sound of the shot, he had failed to regain consciousness. The bullet tore a gaping wound in his brain and obliterated a part of his face.

First Precinct police, ascribing his act as a suicidal attempt, found the man sprawled on the floor at the end of his room, his hand clutching a revolver, and the room wildly disarranged.

On a writing desk nearby they found two notes, both in the jerky scrawl of a nervous man. One sealed in an envelope was addressed to "Rita N. Shire, Kidd Key College, Sherman, Tex."

It read: "Rita, I am all in. Sell my car and send for my daughter. Dad." Then, as an afterthought he wrote: "Notify Sherer Gillett Co., Marshall, Mich." He was employed by this firm and had come to the hotel on February 21 to work this territory. In pencil at the end of the letter was scribbled: "Rita, Margaret

POLICE SEIZE STILL AS OPERATOR FLEES

40 Barrels of Mash and Five Gallons of Whisky Also Taken.

Three policemen who timed their raid so they would find operations running full blast, swooped down on a house on Fifteenth street, near Massachusetts avenue southeast, last night and confiscated 40 barrels of mash and a 250-gallon still.

The operator of the plant made his escape just as Sergt. R. C. Pearce, Lieut. A. W. Guyer and Detective W. S. Beck arrived, jumping from a second-story window to an adjacent roof a few feet below, then fleeting up an alley.

The still and 5 gallons of whisky, which also were seized, were removed to the Fifth Precinct Station, the mash was rendered useless by a kero-

Spanked Girl Wins $16,000 From Thaw

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—Marcia Estraddus today was awarded $16,000 damages from Harry K. Thaw in her suit for $100,000. She charged that in January, 1927, while she was visiting Thaw in his apartment he struck her with a hairbrush and bit her.

The jury deliberated two hours.

In a previous trial Miss Estraddus was awarded $75,000, but this was reduced to $25,000 by Justice Aaron Levy, who heard the case. The appellate division ordered a new trial, however.

Thaw, who attended only the last hour of the first trial, did not miss any of the one which closed today.

Bay State Coast Cities Suffer in Tidal Storm

Lynn and New Hampshire Resorts Imperiled by 13-Foot Tide; Cottages Tumbled Into Angry Sea by High Wind.

Boston, March 4 (A.P.).—King Neptune today marshalled his allies, the snow and the gale, to smite the East Coast, from New York's busy harbor to Maine's rugged frontier, the hardest blow of his winter campaign. Supported by a wild no'theaster and screened by billowing snow, the sea advanced all along the ocean front to positions it has not occupied for 22 years.

Water front sections of many communities were inundated.

Much damage was caused shore property, particularly summer cottages, many of which were tumbled into the sea.

Electric and steam railroads and motor traffic was interrupted by washouts and by the depth of the flood.

Countless automobiles were left stalled and blocking highways as the flood rolled back with the ebb of the tide.

Commander R. F. Luce, of the U. S. Coast Geodetic Survey, reported that the tide reached its maximum at 11:15 a. m. At that hour he recorded 13 feet, 8 inches, or 2 feet 8 inches above the normal for the date. The excess water was driven up by the strong wind, that maintained gale force off the coast. Only a continuance of the strong wind could mean

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States
Appears on Pages 5 and 20 Today

Cox also held a press conference yesterday, and he also voiced his opinion of the prohibition law. He is in favor of turning the problem over to the States, and he does not think many of the States would decide to go wet again.

Planning on Fight.

Regardless of what the committee does, former Gov. Smith is determined to go before the next national convention and lead the fight for a change in the prohibition law. He thinks that the 15,000,000 Americans who voted for him in 1928 would expect him to do this.

He said yesterday that there was no doubt that prohibition would be an issue in the 1932 campaign; that the reaction to the Wickersham report proved that it would be an issue.

Former Gov. Smith flatly denied that he had taken sides with Chairman Raskob and had split with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, when he protested against the resolution adopted by the New York State Democratic committee.

Urged to Take No Action.

The resolution of the New York State organization urged that the Democratic national committee take no action on the prohibition question. The resolution was adopted with the knowledge of Roosevelt, and the inference was that he was trying to head off any such declaration so that he might corral the votes of the drys and the "moists" by stressing issues other than prohibition.

In his press conference Tuesday, former Gov. Smith said that while he agreed that the Democratic national committee could not fix the policies of the party, he did feel that the members of the New York organization started to talk "before they knew what they were talking about."

This remark precipitated reports that he had split with Roosevelt.

Called Newspaper Talk.

Yesterday former Gov. Smith said that the talk of his having a split with Gov. Roosevelt was all newspaper talk.

He was asked if he was in favor of Roosevelt's nomination in 1932. "This is not the time to discuss that," he said. "That is a question that must be decided by somebody that is more important than me. And that is the national convention."

The impression has been growing that former Gov. Smith is himself a candidate for the nomination. Asked about this yesterday, he said:

"Anybody that can lay out the deliberations of the next national convention seventeen months in advance is the greatest professor of magic that the world has ever seen."

Same Views on Tariff.

Former Gov. Smith said that he still entertained the same views about the tariff that he expounded in 1928. He said he still was opposed to general revision and that he still thought that tariff changes should be placed in the hands of a commission of experts.

Mr. Smith was the cynosure of all eyes at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday. When he went into the dining room to have lunch the orchestra struck up "The Sidewalks of New York," and many of the guests joined in.

Representative Bertrand Snell (Republican), New York, was one of those that remained out of the chorus, but a little later Smith and Snell were seen talking together.

In the course of the day a number of national committeemen called on Chairman Raskob, and some of them warned him against trying to put through a wet resolution.

Opposed by Byrd.

Among them was former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, a vice chairman of the committee. Byrd said he was very much opposed to Chairman Raskob's using the promises he has gathered from various committeemen and committeewomen who will not be present, including those in our insular possessions.

Norman Mack, national committeeman from New York, said he was opposed to anything being brought up at today's meeting that would cause a quarrel. He said he and everybody he had talked to were all for harmony.

Congress Library Gets No Holiday

District Institution, However, Will Leave Matter Up to Trustees.

The Library of Congress will not observe the Saturday half holiday provided in the bill signed by the President, and the Public Library, with its branches, intends to keep open as usual until 9 o'clock this Saturday night, with its future course for Saturday closing to be determined by its board of trustees.

"For us to close would be very hard on the public, including the employes of the Government, who like to use the reading rooms," declared Dr. Herbert Putnam, the librarian of Congress. He pointed out that fiscal problems might result in the closing of the building at 6 o'clock on Saturday nights after July 1, however.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian of the Public Library, said that "under present conditions I do not care to assume the responsibility myself in deciding whether the library shall keep open or close on Saturdays after this week." He will submit the question to the board of trustees at the meeting next Thursday.

Nye Urges Law to Curb Use of Election Funds

(Associated Press.)

Legislation to limit the use of money in political campaigns was urged yesterday by Chairman Nye of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee.

In a prepared statement Senator Nye said failure to check "in some where limit the use of money in campaigns is to invite the complete breakdown of our form of government through the corrupting of entire electorates."

"Money, if not reasonably and legitimately used in the conduct of election campaigns," he added, "has the effect of making a government responsive not to those most affecting government but to those who furnish the money to be used for such unfair purposes."

gone dousing, and 40 crates of empty bottles were smashed. Eight drums of peaches also were found on the premises.

A large crowd gathered to watch the officers go through the house, which was also furnished with a bed, a few chairs and a pedestal to give the place a disarming dishonest appearance.

A few hours earlier the same three raiders seized a 75-gallon still and seventeen empty barrels in a house on Ninth street near C southeast. No one was arrested.

CONGRESS' EFFECT ON DISTRICT SHOWN

Traffic and Street Car Fares Listed Among Major Questions Taken Up.

The District fared well or bad, as you like it, at the legislative hands of the Seventy-first Congress which ended yesterday.

It fared well if the estimation is based on the number and importance of laws enacted in the last session of the Congress; it fared not so well if you are opposed to legislation enacted.

In its last session the Congress enacted a new traffic law. It enacted a law providing that school children should have rides on the street cars and buses at fares of not more than 3 cents. It enacted the annual District appropriation bill, which has been described by officials and members of the House and Senate as probably one of the best balanced appropriation bills passed in years. Other measures enacted include one providing funds for the District George Washington Bicentennial Commission and another changing the name of B street, through the Mall, to Constitution avenue and naming the new avenue from Union Station Plaza to Pennsylvania avenue, Louisiana avenue. The Constitution avenue law, incidentally, was one of the last labors of Representative Cooper (Republican), Wisconsin, Mr. Cooper, dean of the House and respected by all, talked the measure through both Houses with the support of Democrats and Republicans alike.

Borland Law Substitute.

The District appropriation bill will not make any difference in the number of coins in the average District resident's pocketbook, although Congress specified that the tax rate should not be reduced in the next fiscal year, but another measure probably will make considerable difference. That measure is the Borland law substitute.

The Borland law was just about shot to pieces by court decisions when the District Commissioners began drafting a new law to take its place, so that property owners could legally be assessed for benefit of street improvements. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride began the battle with an effort to show that the Borland law should be repealed entirely. He gathered information from other cities and found, to his dismay, that the law in most other cities was worse than in Washington. The fact gave power to the proposal of the District Commissioners that a substitute law be enacted.

District officials have sought to give the impression that the new law will favor many property owners whose assessments will be reduced and some of whom may get back some of the money they paid the District. The real purpose of the reassessment provision of the law was to permit the District to collect thousands of dollars in special assessments which could not have been collected under the Borland law.

Bills Which Failed.

Among District measures which failed to pass were the Blaine bills regulating the sale of securities in the District, and the procedure for foreclosure of mortgages, the street railway merger and the gas company merger bills, measures prescribing financial responsibility of taxicab operators, authorizing the District Commissioners to close certain streets, authorizing the Commissioners to delegate certain ministerial duties, such as signing contracts, and a bill amending the condemnation law of the District.

One of the major questions affecting the District was not brought to issue. That was the amount that should be appropriated annually out of the Federal Treasury for the upkeep of the National Capital.

Representative Carl Mapes (Republican), Michigan, slightly bald, quiet spoken and kindly, chairman of the special House fiscal relations committee, got that matter laid aside so that his committee could have more time to think it over and get additional data and make its decision. The House extended the authority of Mr. Mapes' committee so that it shall continue in operation despite the ending of the Congress which created it. All members of the committee have been reelected to the next Congress.

Parley Set Friday To Prepare Smith Case

(Associated Press.)

Groundwork for the Senate's court test of the right to office of Chairman Smith of the Power Commission will be laid today. W. Charles Poletti, law associate of John W. Davis, will arrive then to confer with members of the Senate judiciary committee in regard to procedure.

Mr. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, has been employed as chief of the Senate counsel. Former Gov. Alexander Groesbeck, of Michigan, will be associated with him.

The Senate ordered the court procedure to test President Hoover's right to retain Smith in office in view of his rejection by the Senate after he had been confirmed.

Longworth in Doubt As Session Is Ended

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Longworth believes "it is only an all-wise providence who is going to determine which of the two major parties will organize the next House of Representatives."

"Perhaps this is the last time I'll address you from this rostrum," he told the House as Congress adjourned, and he again became Representative Longworth, of Ohio, instead of "Speaker."

There are 217 Republicans, 216 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Labor elected to the Congress opening in December with one seat vacated only Sunday by the death of Representative Henry Allen Cooper (Republican), Wisconsin.

Wales Arrives by Plane In Eastern Argentina

Mar Del Plata, Argentina, March 4 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales arrived today from Bahia Blanca by airplane and motored into the city from the nearby airport with the British Ambassador, Sir James W. R. Macleay.

With Prince George and other members of his party, he will divide his time between here and Buenos Aires until March 14, when he will open a British trade exposition in the capital.

DAY IN CONGRESS

March 4, 1931.

SENATE.

Met at 9 a. m. and adjourned sine die at noon.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, continued his filibuster to force investigation of oil industry.

Adopted conference report on hospitalization bill when Senator Thomas yielded for that purpose.

President Hoover arrived at Capitol to sign a score of bills, but left others to be acted on later.

Angered by filibuster of Senator Thomas, refused to appoint committee to notify President Congress had adjourned.

Judiciary committee will confer tomorrow with counsel in connection with its effort to oust Power Commission Chairman Smith.

Many bills failed of enactment because of Thomas filibuster.

Special committee received sweeping charges from George M. Pritchard (Republican), against election of Josiah W. Bailey (Democrat), as North Carolina senator.

Subcommittee, headed by Senator Hastings, directed Senator Heflin to be more specific in charges in his contest against Senator-elect Bankhead, of Alabama.

HOUSE.

Met at 9:30 a. m. and adjourned sine die at noon.

Approved conference report accepting Senate amendments to hospitalization bill.

Appointed committee to notify President Congress was adjourning.

Approved journal to show that Congress adjourned yesterday and when Speaker declared session adjourned opened doors to visitors and held songfest and jollification.

PRESIDENT AND HIS CABINET VISIT CONGRESS

Underwood & Underwood.

HOOVER HAS 10 DAYS TO SIGN MANY BILLS

Mitchell Rules President Has More Than Week to Study Measures.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover signed a score or more bills at the Capitol yesterday but left many more to be acted upon within the next ten days.

With his desk piled high with last minute legislation the President had asked Attorney General Mitchell if he had to sign them all before Congress adjourned at noon today. The Attorney General looked it up and answered no, that he had ten days from the time he received them to sign or reject.

With a sigh of relief, the Chief Executive left off reading and signing, put on his top hat, and went up to the Capitol to sign two imoprtant bills and a score of minor ones.

The President's room at the Capitol was full of Cabinet officers and commission heads when the Chief Executive made his way to the chamber through crowded corridors. After greeting his official family, he lighted a long black cigar. Cabinet members followed his example and soon the room was blue with smoke.

Gives Autographs Too.

Messengers hurried in and out with bills and reports. The President frequently called a Cabinet member to his side for a brief conference before signing a measure. When there were no more bills, he similingly consented to sign a score or more cards for autograph-seeking House and Senate pages.

The House officially notified Mr. Hoover a few minutes before 12 o'clock that they had adjourned but the Senate never got around to it. A filibuster by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, prevented passage of a resolution to appoint a committee to tell the President that the Senate was through as is customary.

When the bell rang just outside the President's room signalling the Senate's adjournment, he went to the front of the Capitol to be photographed with his Cabinet.

Heretofore for many years it has been customary for the President to sign all bills before the adjournment of Congress. This year, Congress dumped more than 400 measures on his desk during the last three or four days, making it a physical impossibility for him to get reports on, or read them all.

Ten Days to Sign.

Under the ruling he now has ten days to sign all the bills passed the last day, and ten days from the day he received other bills with Sundays not being counted.

The only bill of major importance not signed before the clock struck 12 yesterday was the Wagner unemployment bill providing for the establishment of Federal employment agencies in cooperation with the various States. President Hoover has until Monday to sign or reject the bill.

William Tyler Page, Clerk of the House, said the Mitchell decision was not without precedents. Under President Wilson, he said, Attorney General Palmer ruled the Chief Executive had ten days in which either to sign or pocket veto legislation, but that he could not return an active veto after Congress adjourned.

Smoot of Utah Becomes Senate's Dean in Service

(Associated Press.)

Senator Smoot, of Utah, yesterday became the dean of the Senate.

This came about through the retirement of Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, after 30 years of service in the Senate, and of Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, after 38 years in Congress. Senator Gillett, however, served but one term in the Senate.

Senator Smoot's record of 28 years in Congress is exceeded only by that of the dean of the House, Representative Haugen, of Iowa, who today completed 32 consecutive years as representative from Iowa.

BAILEY WILL FACE ELECTION PROBE

Charges of Fraud Made by Pritchard in Hands of Subcommittee.

(Associated Press.)

Sweeping charges of fraud made in a contest filed by George M. Pritchard, Republican candidate, against the election of Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, as senator from North Carolina last November were placed in the hands of a special Senate elections subcommittee yesterday for investigation.

The subcommittee named by Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, chairman of the elections committee, was headed by Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, with Senators Watson (Republican), Indiana, and Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, as the other members. It is expected to meet soon to plan the inquiry.

Two other senatorial seats were in dispute as Congress adjourned—those of John H. Bankhead, Democratic senator-elect from Alabama, and of Thomas D. Schall, blind Republican senator from Minnesota.

A special subcommittee headed by Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, sitting yesterday to consider the Bankhead contest filed by Senator Heflin, Democrat, decided to direct Heflin to submit more specific charges than those he has previously made. He was given until May 1 to do so after which Bankhead will be allowed 30 days in which to file answers.

No subcommittee was name in connection with the Minnesota senator, as no formal contest has been filed. The communication received in the Senate Tuesday from Elnar Hoidale, of Minneapolis, the defeated Democratic candidate, was simply a notice of intent to file a contest, although it contained accusations that Schaal had used the mails illegally, violated the State corrupt practices act and received illegally and fraudulently cast votes.

Indications were that nothing would be done toward investigating it until Congress reconvenes in December.

Senator Shortridge failed in the face of a filibuster in the closing hours of the session to secure passage of a resolution providing $25,000 for expenses of the North Carolina investigation.

The committee will attempt to determine, however, whether it would not be possible to use for this purpose a part of a $35,000 appropriation previously made to finance the Heflin contest inquiry.

Elliott Approval Delayed in Senate

Hoover Is Expected to Give Recess Appointment to Representative.

Representative Richard N. Elliott (Republican), Indiana, failed to get Senate approval of his appointment as Assistant Comptroller General of the United States before Congress adjourned.

It is likely that Mr. Elliott's appointment would have been approved by the Senate but for the filibuster by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, which took almost the entire time of the Senate in the closing hours of the Congress.

A recess appointment is expected to be given Mr. Elliott by President Hoover in view of the fact that his appointment was approved by a Senate committee. That may be a good thing, but it will mean that Mr. Elliott will have to serve without pay until Congress gets together again and confirms his nomination. Mr. Elliott yesterday ended fifteen years' service in Congress. He was defeated for reelection in the last campaign.

FILIBUSTER ENDS CONGRESS SESSION

Thomas Holds Floor While Hoover Appears to Sign Few Bills.

House bills proposing a 90 per cent reduction in immigration; the infancy and maternity measure; the vestal copyright bill. A stack of other minor business and nominations still awaited action.

A host of investigations and some election contests face the Senate for its nine months' recess.

Work Accomplished.

The Seventy-first Congress put on the statute books the Smoot-Hawley tariff act; established the Federal Farm Board, and appropriated in its two years almost $10,000,000,000, a record peacetime expenditure.

The Congress also overrode administration opposition to increase the loan value on veterans' adjusted service certificates to 50 per cent of face value. It voted $2,000,000 for pensions for World and Spanish-American War disabled veterans and expanded the veterans hospitalization program to about $150,000,000.

For the second time, it sent to the White House a Government operation proposal for Muscle Shoals only to have it vetoed again. The legislation died when the Senate sustained President Hoover's action.

It failed to enact legislation to eliminate the "lame duck" sessions of Congress when the Senate and House disagreed on a proposal to limit the second term.

Provides New Seating.

Besides providing for reapportionment of the House on the basis of the 1930 census, the Congress enacted a $144,000,000 rivers and harbors bill.

It authorized the modernization of three battleships at a cost of $30,000,000, provided $500,000,000 for the Federal Farm Board's revolving fund, imposed a 10 cent tax on butter substitutes, transferred the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department and created industrial alcohol and narcotic bureaus.

All of the branches dealing with veterans' affairs were consolidated in the veterans' administration and large aids were allowed the air mail service.

Several Wickersham proposals to expedite prosecution of prohibition violations and to relieve congested Federal courts were enacted along with a bill modifying the Jones five-year and $10,000 fine law to remove minor offenses from its provisions.

Treaty Reduces Navy.

The Senate ratified the London Naval Treaty initiated by President Hoover reducing the Navy.

The Congress witnessed William Howard Taft die and the Senate confirmed Charles Evans Hughes as the new Chief Justice of the United States to succeed him.

An investigation was conducted into railroad holding companies by the House interstate commerce committee with a view to bringing them under Federal supervision; another House committee studied Communist activities in this country.

Knights of Columbus Chief Dies.

Newsprint Invoices Opposed by Publishers

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to a proposed requirement of consular invoices on imports of news prints from Canada was expressed yesterday by representatives of publishers at a hearing before the Customs Bureau.

Under present regulations, products imported duty free or under specific rates, are not required to be accompanied by such invoices. Some branches of the Government, including the Narcotic Bureau and divisions of the Agriculture Department, have asked that the invoices be required on all imports. The fee of $2.50 charged for consular invoices was termed a nuisance charge by the witnesses.

Washington's Likeness Goes on 1932 Quarters

(Associated Press.)

Next year's quarters will be adorned by the features of George Washington.

President Hoover today signed a bill to pay this tribute to the first President to commemorate the 200th anniversary of his birth in 1932.

The Treasury will decide what will go on the other side of the coins.

SIX INVESTIGATIONS ARE LEFT BY SENATE

Lobbying, Campaign Funds, Postal Leases Are Put Under Inquiry.

(Associated Press.)

Six Senate investigating committees prepared yesterday to share the spotlight forfeited by Congress for the next nine months. They will carry on investigations into lobbying, campaign funds, postoffice leases, economic conditions, banking facilities and the condition of the Indians.

In addition, a joint congressional committee will inquire into unemployment insurance, and a commission composed of members of Congress and Cabinet officers will study methods of "equalizing the burdens of war" by universal draft and otherwise.

With the adjournment of Congress, members of the committees made preparations for starting the inquiries, which are expected to develop more than the usual between-session activity on Capitol Hill.

The lobby committee probably will be the first to go into action. Chairman Caraway said it will open next week its inquiry into published reports a senator received $100,000 or more from a domestic sugar company while Congress was considering the tariff bill.

Investigator Is Working.

Senator Davis (Republican), Pennsylvania, asked for the investigation and appeared before the committee to characterize the charge a "lie" if it referred to him.

John Holland, the committee's investigator, is now in Chicago to collect evidence from the sugar company's files.

Chairman Nye of the campaign funds committee said his committee would meet late next week to plan its program.

Chairman Blaine of the committee investigating postal leases said his committee probably would not resume its hearings until the lobby committee had finished its work.

Blaine plans to continue the inquiry into the lease for the St. Paul Commercial Station Postoffice in which a grand jury found evidences of fraud. The committee also will go into several other big postoffice leases and will prepare a report on more than 400 of them.

Bank Hearings End Temporarily.

Hearings in the banking investigation have been completed for the present, but Chairman Glass said yesterday he plans during the next few weeks to draft legislation on the basis of the hearings and then call in leading bankers and economists for consultation.

The Senate authorized its manufactures committee to hold hearings during the summer on Chairman La Follette's bill to establish a national economic council which would study and keep in touch with economic conditions and submit recommendations and legislation to the President and Congress.

The sixth Senate investigation will be a continuation of the study of conditions among the Indians.

The Universal Draft Commission, composed of four members of each house and the Cabinet, will open hearings today with Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War during the World War, as the first witness.

Senate members of the joint committee to investigate unemployment insurance were appointed by Vice President Curtis yesterday. Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, author of the proposal, was named chairman.

SUICIDE OF YOUNG GIRL STIRS WIDESPREAD PITY

mother got herself into * * * Found dead in New York and they are saying terrible things * * * March 1—Every one is nice to me * * * Guess I'll change my name to Fredericka * * * March 2—They are saying so many things * * * It's awful * * * March 3—I just can't live any longer * * * Too much for me * * * I am going to end it all * * * Divide my money * * * I am in my right mind and I am going to turn on the jets."

Benita had not seen her mother in nine years. She remembered a gay, beautiful woman, to her the most beautiful woman possible, a beautiful dancer, who lived alone and secluded in New York, who lived for her art and was hardly a part of the mundane world. She never came home, the father told the girl, because she must heed the demands of the public for her art. Mr. Bischoff gave Benita a picture of her mother.

There was no doubt of Vivian Gordon's beauty. She was beautiful up to the day of her death. But her theater was Broadway, and its dives. Her public was a list of men—millionaires, thugs, procurers, blackmailers, whose names appeared in a diary far different from that the daughter was keeping.

Benita read the stories of her mother's death. Saw gaudy photographs of her mother.

Mr. Bischoff told of this as he sat in his cottage living room tonight. Outside on the door purple crepe was topped by a bouquet of pink roses and orchids.

Regarding the dairy he said: "Benita, in her will, mentioned her 'grandmom,'" continued the father "I believed she referred to my mother, Mrs. M. Bischoff, who lives at 9700 Artesian avenue, Chicago. It could not have been Vivian Gordon's mother, because Benita did not know her own mother, and, therefore, could not have known her maternal grandmother."

Mr. Bischoff was asked if he had any idea who might have killed his former wife. He said, "I have not the faintest idea how or why Vivian was killed.

"I would have done anything to save my child this torment. I would gladly have laid down my life for her.

"Lord knows I tried hard enough to protect her from this disgrace all through the years. We have moved frequently so that my first wife could not learn our address."

Mr. Bischoff said that he had no announcement to make of the daughter's funeral. Police informed reporters, however, that arrangements had been made for her burial Friday morning at Collingswood, N. J.

DRAVES GIRL BURIED AS AUTOPSY ENDS

Results of Examination Are Said to Make Stronger Case for State.

Reynolds, Ind., March 4 (A.P.).—Arlene Draves' body was at rest again tonight in the lonely Lutheran Cemetery, after it was disinterred for a second autopsy today—the results of which were declared by one of the examiners to support the prosecution in the trial of Virgil Kirkland, indicted as the girl's slayer.

The findings of the four surgeons, who for four hours worked behind the closed doors of this village's weather-beaten town hall, will be submitted at the Kirkland trial in Valparaiso probably Friday.

The first autopsy, a few hours after Arlene died, early the morning of November 30, was pronounced "very complete" by Dr. E. S. Jones, of Hammond, one of the State's examiners, after today's disinterment. No comment was forthcoming from the other three.

Kirkland's counsel asked for the exhumation, believing that Dr. James B. Burcham, coroner's physician, of Gary, had failed to examine certain organs, the condition of which at the time of death might have an important bearing in Kirkland's defense.

Impeachment of Burcham's testimony would materially aid Kirkland.

Tobacco Growers Meet On Marketing Project

Charles B. Rogan addressed the meeting, giving the attitude of the Farm Board toward the proposed association.

CONGRATULATIONS IN ORDER, SAYS PRESIDENT ON TREATY

application of the men charged with the conduct of foreign affairs.

"In the last phase of the negotiations, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Briand and Mr. Grandi have given it the full measure of their statesmanship and the successful result is a matter for congratulation in the whole world.

"I am happy also to acknowledge the impetus given the settlement by the suggestion of Ambassador Gibson conveyed in Paris and Rome last November.

"I feel that the responsible heads of governments and the peoples of the world owe a debt of gratitude to the infinite patience and ability of all who have collaborated so effectively toward the settlement and that they realize the fortunate augury which the solution of this problem by direct conversations between the interested parties contains for the progress in the removal of the obstacles in the path of a general and reasonable limitation of all armaments."

Text Expected Today.

The Chief Executive and Secretary of State issued statements praising the success of negotiations after Ambassador Dawes at London had advised the State Department the British foreign office had forwarded a text of the settlement to the British Embassy here. The text had not arrived last night, but it was expected Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, would be able to deliver it to the department today.

Mr. Stimson said he did not wish, in the absence of definite information, to make any statement as to whether the agreement would necessitate a revision of the London Naval Treaty necessitating Senate action.

The United States would much prefer, he added, that the agreement require no revision of the London Treaty.

Very Great Satisfaction.

"It is a very great satisfaction for this Government," he said, "that an arrangement seems to have been reached which not only puts an end to the naval competition between France and Italy, but also removes the danger that British apprehension aroused by that competition will invoke the 'escalator clause' in the London Treaty and thus affect us.

"I think we may take great satisfaction that the movement among these five greatest naval powers, which was originally initiated in 1922 by this country and which was again renewed in 1929 by this administration under President Hoover, has finally apparently reached a complete solution and stopped all naval competition between those five powers."

The Secretary said his information was to the effect that the "escalator" clause, which left a loophole for a raising of naval strength by treaty powers in the event those outside the treaty increased their navies, would not be involved by the agreement.

Will Not Affect Battleships.

Mr. Stimson said he had been informed the agreement would not affect battleships so far as Great Britain, the United States and Japan were concerned.

Commenting informally on reports France was to be allowed a superiority to the other treaty powers in submarines, the Secretary said any limitation on these vessels would be better than the former situation in which France and Italy were permitted to build an unlimited number of undersea craft.

The fact that Great Britain, the directly interested power, was satisfied, Mr. Stimson said, was a good indication that the United States would be satisfied.

PRACTICAL PARITY GAINED IN TREATY

believes they will not affect the national security and that they are balanced by sacrifices on the part of the French.

The accord will give France in 1936 a superiority of 229,000 tons, but Italy discounts this, pointing out that 84,000 tons of that total will be obsolete while the Italian obsolete tonnage will be only 5,000.

Moreover, the French have certain types of ships which the Italians believe unnecessary to their navy.

A unique point, according to the terms disclosed today, is that both countries are permitted to build two 23,000-ton cruisers. Another is the decided superiority the accord gives France in submarines—81,900 tons, as compared with 52,700 for Italy. Italy, however, receives parity in this category with the United States, England and Japan.

Difference in Tonnage.

The terms as disclosed today give France a total tonnage of 670,000 and Italy 441,000 in 1936, and an efficient tonnage of 586,000 for France and 436,000 for Italy, leaving France a 150,000-ton margin of superiority. For replacement France may build 31,000 tons and Italy 47,000 before 1936. France may build 4,441 tons of submarines and Italy 2,791, halting her submarine building when she has 52,700 tons, her parity figure.

In aircraft carriers each country may have 43,000 tons. In the period of the accord Italy will build or finish 130,000 tons and France 126,000 tons.

WIDOW SAYS BRIDGE SLAYING ACCIDENTAL

Prosecutor Fails to Shake Story of Mrs. Bennett as Case Closes.

Kansas City, March 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Myrtle Bennett's sobbing testimony that her husband was shot to death by accident and not deliberately as the climax of a bridge game quarrel was followed today by the prosecution's futile attempt to introduce surprise testimony, as the case drew to a close.

State's attorneys were restricted in the questioning of Thomas K. Bennett, brother of John G. Bennett, the slain man, and Byrd Rice, of Chicago, his nephew, in an attempt to discredit Mrs. Bennett's defense. Testimony was completed at today's court session. Tomorrow will be devoted to arguments of attorneys and the court's instructions to the jury.

The defense rested when, in answer to former Senator James A. Reed's question as to whether she shot her husband "intentionally or deliberately" Mrs. Bennett sobbed: "No, indeed, I did not. I'd rather have been dead myself."

Mrs. Bennett began her recital of the bridge game tragedy in a low voice and finished it in a flood of tears.

Telling of Bennett's anger caused by criticism of his bridge playing, Mrs. Bennett said "he slapped me several times hard."

She retired to a divan weeping, she said, but later arose to talk to her husband, who was in a closet reaching for his grip, suddenly determined to start a business trip that night.

At Bennett's direction, the witness testified, she went to her mother's room to get his pistol, which he habitually carried on business trips. Returning Mrs. Bennett related she stumbled over a chair and accidentally discharged the weapon.

"I was scared to death," the witness continued, telling of seeing her husband rush through a door into the living room,

"He was running toward me," she sobbed. "When he got to me he grabbed hold of me. He caught my arm and twisted it. Somehow in the scuffle, the gun discharged. I don't know how it happened, but that's what happened——"

"I was frightened almost to death," Mrs. Bennett continued. "I called the doctor and Jack's Aunt Nellie. We put a pillow under his head."

A brief cross-examination failed to draw from the witness the admission she had told other versions of the slaying.

"Star-Spangled Banner" Is Now Official Anthem

President Herbert Hoover yesterday signed the bill, passed by House and Senate, making "The Star-Spangled Banner" the national anthem of the United States.

What matters it that several millions of citizens will be surprised and perhaps assert that it has been the national anthem for years? What does it matter that nations throughout the world recognize the strains of "Oh, say, can you see * * *" as the scream of the American eagle, no matter how difficult it is to sing and no matter how many of the loyal and red-blooded sons of the Red, White and Blue do not know more of the anthem than that? What does it matter that some critics say the words of Francis Scott Key's war poem were set to music of a barroom tune?

"The Star-Spangled Banner" today is the national anthem of the United States, by law, though many Americans will be surprised to know that a law was necessary to make it such.

PERU JUNTA TO TRY FOR REBEL SUPPORT

Representatives Fail to Win Revolutionists at Arequipa; Other Efforts Planned.

Lima, Peru, March 4 (A.P.).—An effort to win the support of rebel forces in both the North and South will be made tomorrow by representatives of the new junta government of Provisional President Ricardo Leoncio Elias. After representatives of the Lima government had failed to gain the support of the Southern leaders in Arequipa, they returned to the capital in an airplane. Later a group of the Southerners set forth for Lima in another plane for further conferences.

The delegates from the rebelling military forces in Arequipa who will discuss the situation here are Engineer Luis G. Olazabal, Maj. Enrique Barreda and Capt. Enrique Indacochea. Their trip to the capital is made under guarantee of safety by the commander in chief of the navy.

Meanwhile, another delegation representing the new junta today flew to the North to treat with rebels there. The party was headed by Jorge Vargas.

It was said today that troops which sailed for the South to combat the rebels last week before the resignation of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, would be returned to Lima tomorrow. They will be put ashore at Ancon and brought here by train.

The government denied rumors that Augusto B. Leguia, who was overthrown as president by last fall's revolution, would be released from prison and permitted to go into exile. Leguia was arrested on a charge of misappropriating government funds during his administration.

Bill Would Exempt W. B. & A. From Taxes

Annapolis, Md., March 4.—Relief for the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad, now in receivership, to aid its plans for rehabilitation, is asked in a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator George A. Frick, of Baltimore City. The bill provides for exempting the road from all State taxes and charges for a period of four years.

The proposed bill was presented as an emergency act and would also exempt the road from contributions to the cost of construction of railroad crossings, made under authority of the State roads commission, and from all county and city charges in the form of taxes. If the bill is approved, the exemptions would become operative as of January 1 of this year.

HINDUS FERVENTLY CELEBRATE SIGNING OF PEACE TREATY

have not been officially published, it is understood they are as follows:

1. The Nationalists will abandon the civil resistance movement.

2. Indians along the coast will be given the right to manufacture their own salt and thus will not have to purchase it from the government monopoly.

3. Property of congress adherents, which has been confiscated because of nonpayment of taxes will be returned, with certain reservations.

4. Nationalists will be permitted to do picketing within the normal laws of the country and will be permitted to conduct boycotts so long as they do not aim specifically at British goods—in other words, if their idea is to promote local trade and industry.

5. Nationalists who were imprisoned for civil disobedience activities will be given amnesty and all government repressive measures will be withdrawn.

6. The Nationalists drop their demand for an investigation into alleged police brutality.

7. The government won from them consent to work for qualified dominion status in a second round table conference.

Both Sides Gain.

While the Nationalists have admittedly gained much by accepting the settlement, it is pointed out on the government side that Great Britain gains equal, if not greater, advantages.

The most important gain in this direction was the point wherein the Nationalists agreed to confine themselves at the next round table conference to the specified scope of constitutional questions elucidated by the first round table meeting in London.

This commits Gandhi to the principle of a federation of Indian reponsibility. But with British safeguards covering finance, defense, foreign affairs, the position of minorities and the discharge of India's national debts.

Peace in India Presages Acceleration of Trade

(Associated Press.)

Government trade observers expect favorable effects on American commerce to come both directly and indirectly from the settlement of difficulties between the government of British India and the native leaders like Mahatma Gandhi.

"If the settlement goes through a burden will be removed from Indian industrial activities which has hung over them for several years," said Louis Domeratzky, chief of the information section of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, yesterday.

"The standards of living of the Indain population will be allowed to continue the slow rise which was more or less interrupted by the political turmoil. Further, a factor tending to depress British industry and finance will be removed. Great Britain, as one of the more important national consumers of American products, may be expected to better its general condition in the long run by reason of the Indian settlement, which fact augurs well for the maintenance of an important section of American exports."

It is not likely that there will be immediate stimulus to American trade as a result of the agreement, Domeratzky added.

American exports to India, which amounted to $60,000,000 in 1929, declined to $45,000,000 in 1930, while American imports from India of $140,000,000 in 1929 has become $104,000,000 in 1930. A part of the decline was attributed to price recessions and not to the political disturbances.

Earth 2 Billion Years Old, And Fickle, Scientists Find

There Were Dark Ages in History, When for Eons at a Stretch, Sea Life Changed Little, Report at Yale Says.

New Haven, Conn., March 4 (A.P.).—Two billion years is earth's age and her development is as fickle as any prima donna's.

The scientific report of these facts was issued tonight at Yale University by the committee on the age of the earth of the National Research Council.

The birthdays are read in radio activity of rocks, which the committee decides is the best of all methods. This latest estimate is built around the oldest identified rock, having a radio-active age of 1,852,000,000 years.

But, says the report, this rock is not the beginning. It is made of still older "materials" of which no relics now survive. Allowing for errors, the committee concludes that the earth can not be younger than 1,600,000,000 nor older than 3,000,000,000 years.

In development of surface life, earth has had her dark ages lasting for eons at a stretch.

"There were times in the history of the earth," says the report, "when for tens of millions of years there was hardly any change in sea life, while at other times life on land was in a very rapid state of evolution.

"Some modern sea shells can be traced all the way back to the eocene period, showing that sixty million years have been required to evolve these marine invertebrates. On the other hand, it is known that snail shells in an artificial lake created by a dam in Wisconsin changed into distinct and easily recognizable varieties after 60 years."

Earth's face is covered by deposits the grains of which are finer in relation to her size than those of the cosmetician compared with the cheeks they brighten. These deposits are nearly 40 miles thick over all North America, the report states. They are from old seas and deltas. Their aggregate pile over the entire earth is estimated at about 75 miles.

GIRL DANCER HOLDS NEW GORDON CLEW

Witness Says Men Hurled Chemical in Her Face as She Answered Bell.

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—Baffled by the complexity of the problem, authorities fumbled today with the countless pieces of the Vivian Gordon murder puzzle.

Charles B. McLaughlin, Bronx district attorney, who has yet to let a murderer escape his grasp, had lost some of his jaunty self-confidence as he took sixteen prisoners before a grand jury, hoping to obtain under oath some scrap on which to build a case. Police were thwarted by a "stone wall of silence."

A new angle cropped out in Mount Vernon, just north of the Bronx, where Leonora Halsey, Cuban dancer and witness in the murder mystery, said two men who called themselves "police officers" rang her doorbell and threw disinfectant in her face. She was put to bed, complaining of burns about the face, while police checked her story.

Was to Tell of Ride.

She was to have told the grand jury more about the ride she said she took with Miss Gordon and two men in evening clothes on the night of the murder.

District Attorney McLaughlin, however, received a report from Mount Vernon police which led him to announce the belief that the burns suffered by Miss Halsey might have been self-inflicted. There had been a light fall of snow and detectives, he said, had found only one set of footprints leading to the woman's house. These, they said, were made by her physician.

The five Gordon diaries, which etched the picture of the vice graft tipster and alleged blackmailer as a woman tormented by fear of death at the hands of some of the men involved in her tortuous deals, furnished a multitude of "clews."

Toxicologists report they found no evidence of drugs in the woman's body, but there were indications she had drunk a large quantity of liquor.

Recalls Wild Parties.

The importance to the inquiry of Harold Doman and Louis Zeno, whose apartment the diaries had called "a terrible place," seemed to shrink today. The janitor of the building recalled the two men had given many wild parties at which women caroused. The men were to be heard before the grand jury.

A new witness was Helen Dorf, who has started suit for $25,000 against John A. Radeloff, one of two men held in bail as material witnesses. She said she entrusted the money to him after she had been introduced to him by Miss Gordon and after he had asked her to marry him. She said she did not know at the time that he was married.

New Bomb Found In Cuban Court

Official Buildings Guarded as Investigators Trace Plotters.

Havana, March 4 (A.P.).—The Government today officially confirmed reports that an unexploded bomb was discovered in the supreme court building last night.

The finding was broadcast throughout the city unofficially last night, but it was not until today the government, through the department of interior, made official investigation.

A janitor found the dynamite-filled missile on a window sill as he was cleaning up the Cuba street building, where the supreme court holds its sessions.

Secret service agents who were entrusted with the investigation of the bombing a week ago of the presidential palace examined the mechanism of the bomb and attempted to trace its placer. It was announced that extreme precautions had been taken to guard the official buildings.

Severe Snowfall Skips Capital City

Heavy Blanket Is Reported From North Carolina and New York.

Snowstorms of more than ordinary severity which struck to the north and south of Washington early yesterday, again passed the Capital City by, leaving its winter snow shortage record unimpaired. The Weather Bureau meanwhile forecast fair weather ahead, with little change in temperature.

Heavy snow was reported yesterday in North Carolina by pilots of mail and passenger planes operating south of here, reaching a depth of 5 inches at Charlotte. The night northbound plane was unable to make its way through until this morning.

Planes northbound from Washington ran into snow between Philadelphia and New York. Forecaster Charles I. Mitchell said the storm to the north of here is of unusual severity centering about 300 miles at sea, east southeast of Nantucket.

BUDGET HEARING SET IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Session Opens in Courthouse Today to Consider Items Opposed by Citizens.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County board of supervisors will hold a special meeting this morning at 10 o'clock in the Fairfax County Courthouse to give the citizens a hearing on the proposed budget for the county for the fiscal year. At that time they will hear all citizens who wish to speak for or against any item which has been included in the tentative budget published throughout the county. No action will be taken by the board at that time on any appropriation.

It is expected that a large delegation from Mount Vernon district will attend to protest an item of $7,500 for new school buildings in that district. This amount would necessitate a tax of approximately 22 cents on the $100 property valuation. Various citizens organizations of that district have gone on record as favoring a 5-cent tax levy next year for building purposes, but opposed to any larger tax.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax, stated at yesterday's regular meeting of the board that many persons in the county were under the impression that there would be a large increase in the taxes for next year because of the real estate reassessment and valuation which took place last year. Mr. Farr stated that this idea was erroneous, because the budget for this year has not been materially increased over the amount asked last year. Many persons, he declared, will, in fact, pay less.

The assessment in Dranesville, Lee and Centerville Districts show a decrease over the assessed valuation of last year. The total amount of taxes under the proposed budget will not be any more than last year.

The supervisors at the meeting yesterday passed a resolution instructing the Commonwealth's attorney to enter a protest to the State authorities on a rule of the States' attorney general, in regard to the distribution of the gas tax collected during November and December of last year, being distributed under the act of the State Legislature, which became effective on January 1, 1931. The board stated that inasmuch as the gas tax, which was collected under the old law, should be distributed under that law, and the county should not suffer because of the system employed in the handling of this money in the State comptroller's office. If the courts uphold the attorney general's ruling this would mean a loss of more than $4,000 to Fairfax County for the two months.

Supervisors W. F. P. Reid, of Mount Vernon District; Mark Turner, of Dranesville District, and Harry Leigh, of Providence District, were appointed members of the special committee to cooperate with the similar committees from the governing bodies of Arlington County and the City of Alexandria, to act on all questions in regard to the advancement of this section of Virginia.

County Clerk F. W. Richardson, reported that his office had collected $1,758.34 in delinquent taxes. County Engineer F. N. Larkin filed an annual inventory of the equipment owned by the county and the highway department. The total valuation was placed at $38,266. During the past month the county road police made 50 arrests. The fines totaled $465 and the fees $38. The fees were ordered placed to the credit of the county road police fund.

W. F. Pierce Reid, of Groveton, yesterday announced his candidacy for reelection as a Democratic nominee for supervisor from Mount Vernon Magisterial District. Mr. Reid at present is chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, having been a member of that body for many years. He will be opposed in the Democratic primary next August by Herbert O. Blunt.

Mr. Reid has been active in the progressive movements of the county and has been a lifelong resident of the district which he now represents. He was one of the first supervisors to start the good-roads movement in the county, and through his efforts Mount Vernon District now has more miles of good roads than any other district in Fairfax County.

Mr. Reid is a charter member of the Fairfax County Fair Association, the County Chamber of Commerce, the Mount Vernon Grange and the Groveton Community Club.

A raid led by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams on the home of William Philipoon, 38 years old, of Dunne Loring, resulted in the seizure of one of the largest stills captured in Fairfax County in many years. Twenty-two gallons of alleged liquor was also seized and more than 3,000 gallons of mash destroyed and Philipoon arrested and charged with the possession of the still and liquor. He was given a hearing yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace H. Carlin Cockerill, at Fairfax.

He testified at the hearing that he had rented the basement of his home to two men from Washington for $40 per week, and he knew the purpose for which the men rented the basement, but denied that he took any part in the operation of the still. Philipoon was ordered held for the action of the grand jury at the March term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, which opens on March 16. His bond was set at $1,000.

Accompanying Inspector Williams on the raid were Sheriff E. P. Kirby, Deputy Sheriffs Henry Magarity and Paul Hermann and County Policeman Louis L. Finks.

Arrangements are being made by Prof. Crabill for the annual "Father and Son" banquet, to be held the latter part of this month at Floris.

HOLDS INQUEST

JUDGE THOMAS D. GRIFFITH, of Forestville, who last night held an inquest into the death of Hilary Jackson, a hearing for Edward Stewart held in the death, and a hearing for two alleged tobacco thieves.

TIDAL STORM PERILS COAST OF BAY STATE AND NORTH

a repetition of the flood conditions at tonight's high tide, shortly before midnight.

Reports indicated the greatest damage was caused along the Massachusetts and New Hampshire coasts. Boston's water front streets and docks were submerged and heavy damage was suffered by merchandise and material when the waters invaded warehouses and business buildings. A large part of damage suffered in Boston and elsewhere was due to the flooding of cellars.

North Shore Crippled.

Transportation systems serving sections north of Boston were severely crippled. Suspensions of service were forced on lines of the Boston & Maine and the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroads by washouts and serious inundation.

Winthrop, Swampscott, Nahant, Salisbury Beach and other exposed North Shore communities were pounded by mountainous surf, streets were flooded and shore property was damaged or destroyed.

At Revere Beach, popular summer resort, damage was expected to approximate $100,000. Seven cottages were tumbled into the sea and many others badly damaged. Milk was delivered by men on horseback, who otherwise would have been compelled to wade through deep water to reach dwellings. At least 500 buildings were invaded by the water. Police and firemen removed some of the occupants in boats while others made their way to highland on rafts.

Lynn Is Imperilled.

The city of Lynn was almost isolated by the tide, with virtually all rail transportation disrupted, motorists were forced to take circuitous routes to enter or leave the city. Ambulances removed children from a school which was surrounded by water.

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—The tidal to-do along the East Coast the last few days has been caused by a combination of full noon and brisk northeasterly winds.

As the moon has been getting full, Dr. James H. Scarr, Weather Bureau meteorologist said, an area of low barometric pressure has been moving northward off the East Coast. When last heard of the area was about 300 miles east of Nantucket.

Dr. Scarr looked for an easing of the tides at their regular appearance tomorrow morning.

In New York the tide today was three feet above normal causing considerable trouble to harbor craft. Several coastwise ships were late in reaching port.

Norfolk, Va., March 4 (A.P.).—Although a check along the Virginia-Carolina shore line showed no damage from the storm that swept the Atlantic seaboard yesterday other than severe beach erosion, evidence of a sea disaster, with uncertainty of the fate of the crew of a four-masted schooner, was contained in a message received at the hyurographic office here today from the hydrographic department at Washington.

The message, from a vessel, not identified here, stated that a derelict four-masted schooner, lumber-laden, had been sighted in latitude 31.45 north, and 73:20 west. This position was reckoned by the hydrographic office as about 350 miles east of Charleston, S. C. The Coast Guard had received no information about the vessel and efforts to identify her proved futile. The reckoned position of the vessel places her close to Bermuda and outside of the Norfolk Coast Guard division.

The disabled Roosevelt Line steamer Seminole was picked up this morning by the Coast Guard cutter Mascoutin, 65 miles off Cape Henry and is being towed into Hampton Roads. She is expected to arrive early tomorrow.

Shipping, which had been held up during the storm to a large extent, resumed today.

Planes Burn in $1,000,000 Fire.

Winnipeg, Man., March 4 (A.P.).—A fleet of nine Western Canada Airways planes was destroyed late today in a $1,000,000 fire which destroyed the company's hangar at Stevenson Field, St. James. Flames followed an explosion in the hangar.

Trio of Fugitives Abandoned Auto

Car in Which They Fled From Occoquan Is Left in Rosslyn.

The three men who yesterday escaped from the Occoquan workhouse, abandoned the automobile in which they fled in Rosslyn, Va., a few hours after they fled the workhouse and entered the District afoot, Virginia authorities discovered last night.

The three prisoners, Howard L. Carson, Raymond Ball and Henry P. Sweeney; all of whom were trusties, are thought to have taken a touring car belonging to a guard at the institution, Raymond English, when they left.

O. R. Carr, night watchman at a paper warehouse in Rosslyn, saw the three men drive up in the car at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night, and when the machine was still there in the morning, he notified Harry L. Woodyard, Arlington County jailer. Woodyard took the car to the jail house and then turned it over to English.

None of the three escaped men has been apprehended, police said last night.

Agent Is Reprimanded For Snatching Bottle

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 4.—Arthur Green, 19-year-old Stafford County youth, who struck a dry agent with his fist after the officer had snatched a bottle of lime juice from him in a county dance hall near here, was dismissed of a drinking in public charge by Justice L. A. Gray, in Falmouth. When he grabbed the soft-drink bottle the dry officer, Frank Hart, suspected it contained liquor. Although five officers were present when the incident occurred Hart and Green fought for a few minutes. Justice Gray reprimanded Hart for his conduct.

Support for Fete In 1932 Stressed

Representative Bloom Sees Bicentennial as Boon to Merchants.

Support and cooperation by Washington civic and business leaders of the bicentennial celebration in 1932 was urged in an address last night by Representative Sol. Bloom, of New York, at a stag party given by the Woodmont Country Club, Bethesda, Md.

Representative Bloom, who is co-chairman of the Bicentennial Commission, declared that the celebration will be a great event in Washington and of especial benefit to the merchants of the city because of the enormous crowds which are expected to attend in a Mardi Gras spirit of benevolent spending. Because they will be the principal beneficiaries, the merchants should be the chief supporters of the celebration, he said.

Joseph D. Kaufman, president of the club, welcomed the guests. Alvin Newmeyer, Washington attorney, was master of ceremonies. The usual sporting features and a buffet supper concluded the program.

B. & O. Helper Station In Maryland Is Closed

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 4.—The Baltimore & Ohio helper station at West Meyersdale on the Connellsville division has been closed and all train crews handled there have been ordered to report at Rockwood to protect their turns. Thirty-three trainmen residing at Meyersdale and Berlin have been affected by this change. All equipment will be removed from West Meyersdale to Rockwood.

It is understood the move is in line with recent orders to reduce operating costs on the Connellsville division, the cut to be $27,000 a month. The Salisbury and Berlin branch trains will also be operated out of the Rockwood terminal.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

··Blending makes it better

IN the test kitchen of a great soup maker, the gifted master-chef creates the blend of ingredients to produce the perfect soup. In a scent-laden room in a corner of France an expert blender of perfume invokes his highest genius that our sense of smell may be gratified. In a work-room fragrant with the aroma of many types of coffee beans, a highly-paid specialist concentrates his energies that we may be provided with a coffee blend to please our palates. Whether it's soup or soap, tobacco or tea, music or mustard... blending is vital to the production of the best of each. Equally as vital, if not first in importance, is the knowledge and genius of the blender. He must know how.

The best gasoline, too, is blended. In the processes of a modern refinery three types of gasoline are produced. They are, Natural Gasoline, Straight-run Gasoline, and Cracked Gasoline. Each possesses certain desirable qualities necessary for perfect motor operation... but... no one of them possesses all these wanted characteristics.

So Conoco Gasoline is a blend of the three. There is Natural Gasoline, to give quick starting. There is Straight-run Gasoline, to give power and long-mileage. There is Cracked Gasoline, with its desirable anti-knock quality. Just as carefully as the perfume blender at his delicate task, Conoco refiners have developed their balanced blend of these three ingredients. Theirs is the gift of knowing how to merge the qualities of the three gasolines to create a balanced, triple-test fuel. One brand of coffee outsells all others because of the expertness of its blender. And so, with Conoco Balanced-Blend Gasoline, the skill of the blender accounts for the popularity of the product. Stop today at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle and have your gas tank filled with this better motor fuel.

SOCIALISM BEATEN.

The most striking feature of the Congress session that ended yesterday was the success of President Hoover in blocking socialism. In spite of ingenious schemes appealing to the political advantage of legislators and the financial advantage of sections, the Government of the United States remains the guarantor of equal rights and the protector of individual independence and initiative.

The enactment of the bonus bill over the President's veto does not obscure the fact that Congress cooperated with the President in more vitally important matters affecting the fundamental principles of government.

At the crucial moment the Democrats in Congress abandoned their persistent effort to set up the dole system in the United States. They were compelled to retreat because of the immovable opposition of President Hoover. Nevertheless, they are entitled to credit for their eleventh-hour capitulation. The Democratic party has been saved from a fatal blunder. As the country gradually resumes normal activities and absorbs unemployment the public will look back with amazement upon the fact that a considerable body in Congress actually fought for the socialist principle of feeding the people from the public Treasury. The sooner the Democratic party can persuade the voters that it is not wedded to socialism the better will be its chances of capturing control of the Government.

Another phase of socialism, more dangerous than the dole—which might have been abolished with the return of prosperity—was the attempt to turn over business enterprises to the Government, beginning at Muscle Shoals. The Muscle Shoals resolution was cunningly drawn, so that it appealed to Southern legislators anxious to benefit by huge appropriations. It was fought to a finish with skill and pertinacity. Senator Norris, a Socialist who has the faculty of concealing his ultimate object by making plausible arguments that appeal to the ignorant and the unscrupulous, was successful in drawing support from an astonishing number of legislators who might be presumed to know something about the fundamental principles of government as developed in this country. Some of the legislators had advantages to gain by the Norris program; others were ignorant; others were indifferent, and took Mr. Norris' assurances without personal investigation.

The President's veto message thoroughly exposed the vice of the Muscle Shoals project. That message will be used hereafter as a standard exposition of the fallacy of putting the Government into business. Mr. Hoover's dissection of the Norris scheme left the Socialists thoroughly exposed. They will find this message in their path as long as they persist in their effort to substitute socialism for Americanism.

Assuming that the Democratic party will return to its historic principles, the only outlet for socialism will be through the radical bloc that is to hold solemn conclave later in the month, for the purpose of formulating a program under Senator Norris' enlightened leadership. It would be well if the Socialists would drop their false pretenses of adherence to the Republican and Democratic parties, and come out honestly for what they are. The proper place for the insurgents is in a Socialist party. Let them nominate Senator Norris, or Senator Borah, or Senator La Follette, and go to it! Why wear false faces, which no longer fool anybody? If they really believe that the American people are dotes, confraternity with the Russian Communists &c., they should show their courage by taking the lead and martyrizing themselves in their glorious cause. It is a reflection upon their good faith to remain under flags which they hate.

The session just ended has shown the Socialists that they can not hope to capture the Republican and Democratic parties by boring from within. Both the old parties are incurably American—stupid, reactionary, constitutionalistic. Their defeat ought to teach the Socialists that their sole hope is in flocking by themselves.

THE WIND-UP.

Congress never leaves a record that is completely satisfying. Some important legislation nearly always fails in the last frenzied hours, and frequently foolish bills are sent up to the President without having been adequately considered. The wind-up of the Seventy-first Congress has disappointments for both sides, but on the whole it was much more satisfactory than the country expected.

The avoidance of an extra session is a considerable achievement. Credit for this is largely due to Senator Watson, the Republican leader. Unless an unforeseen emergency should make it necessary for President Hoover to recall Congress the country will enjoy surcease from legislative uncertainty for nine months. Business will have an opportunity to recover without molestation. All of the national energy can be devoted to routing the depression.

The most important item that was choked to death by Senator Thomas' filibuster was the immigration bill. The House had passed by an overwhelming vote a resolution to reduce immigration quotas by 90 per cent for the coming two years. While the Oklahoman waxed eloquent over the plight of the workingman a bill specifically designed for the protection of labor was killed by his prolixity.

On the other hand, the one-man filibuster prevented hasty action on several measures which were in such a status as to make their enactment unwise. The copyright bill had aroused widespread opposition in the Senate. Its defeat will allow the patents committee to eliminate the objectionable features and present a more suitable bill at the next session. The so-called maternity bill failed because of a strong feeling that its proposed encroachment upon the functions of the States is not wise.

The Senate made a clean sweep of all junket excursions. Some members of both houses were anxious to spend summer vacations in Europe at the expense of taxpayers on the pretense of investigating oil, manganese, lumber, &c. The House had voted $50,000 for a junket of this kind, but the Senate stubbornly refused to allow any money for congressional vacations. This in itself was a good day's work.

The Senate filibuster also made possible the enactment of Senator Smoot's bill authorizing expenditure of $20,877,000 for veterans' hospitals and homes. Until the last hour of the session this measure was deadlocked in conference, the House conferees insisting on the acceptance of their own bill, which would have allocated these hospitals according to the logrolling method. At the last minute the House agreed to the Smoot bill because it was impossible to get anything considered on the Senate floor. Senator Thomas did yield, however, long enough to pass a resolution providing $5,000,000 to begin construction of these hospitals.

Another important last-minute measure is the second deficiency bill which carries large sums for public works, reclamation, modernization of battleships and various other purposes.

The next nine months will probably be a lull before the storm; for the Seventy-second Congress can not be otherwise than tempestuous. In the meantime the country will benefit by turning from politics to business.

DEAN OF THE SENATE.

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, became dean of the Senate yesterday when the term of Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, of North Carolina, expired. The retiring dean has served five full terms—30 years—in the Senate, besides one term in the House. Senator Smoot has served for 28 years, and at the expiration of his present term in 1932 he will have been in the Senate five full terms.

The Utah senator is in a position to accept this new honor graciously. No man in Congress has had a broader or more extensive experience in legislative work than he. For 28 years he has given his entire time and energy to the work of the Senate. The store of information on which he draws is tremendous. Both friends and enemies agree that he knows more about the tariff than any other individual. The country recognizes him as the outstanding exponent of the protective principle which figures so prominently in America's industrial progress.

Senator Smoot's first important vote furnished the necessary two-thirds majority for the adoption of the Panama Canal Treaty during the Roosevelt administration. Ever since he has remained a loyal Republican. During the recent insurgent movement he has been a pillar of strength for the party in the Senate.

Senator Smoot is chairman of the finance committee, the most influential committee in Congress. He was a member of the World War Foreign Debt Commission and has played an important role in the funding of war debts.

Senator Smoot's capacity for hard work at the age of 69 is a marvel to his colleagues. His inexhaustible energy, his persistence in sifting out facts and his breadth of view admirably qualify him for his new honor as dean of the Senate.

THE HARDEST WORKER.

Congress, with all its faults, has performed its chief function of providing for the maintenance of the Government. All the appropriation bills were enacted, and a study of them will reveal that the manifold necessities of the Government were cared for, with a judicious allowance for normal growth and propriations run into billions, not counting the bonus bill, and yet it would be difficult for any one to point to objectionable items.

The "supply bills" in the aggregate bear the stamp of a master mind capable of incessant and enormous labor. In the main they are the handiwork of Will R. Wood, chairman of the House committee on appropriations. Since last October he has been inquiring into the vast and intricate operations of the Government and fashioning the legislation necessary to carry these operations forward. The last supply bill passed in the closing hours, the second deficiency, marked the end of five months of unremitting toil on the part of Chairman Wood. He passed judgment upon all sorts of proposals and estimates, running into hundreds of millions of dollars, and in the final result his judgment, more than that of any other legislator, made the decision. In this process he rejected extravagant demands aggregating many millions. He was compelled to resist pleas from friends as well as strangers, and to reject items which he would have approved if the money to be expended had been his own.

With the exception of the bonus bill, which Mr. Wood opposed, the record of Congress in the matter of appropriations is exceptionally good. This record could not have been made if the chairman of the House committee on appropriations had been neglectful or indifferent. Drudgery, without any accompaniment of public notice, to say nothing of public praise, was the only method by which the Government's needs could be met with due regard to growth on one hand and the state of the revenues on the other. Mr. Wood's service, if performed for a private corporation, would have commanded a princely reward. He is entitled to the thanks of the people for long and hard work most efficiently and faithfully performed.

Looks as if Mr. Raskob has seen his shadow and crawled back.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some weeks ago I made certain comments upon some phases of the propaganda for public ownership and the activities of several United States senators in connection therewith. One interesting result of the publication of my views was the receipt by me of numerous letters from correspondents, both known to me and unknown, from all over the country.

Some—perhaps most—of my correspondents appear to think that I believe there is something about the business of generating and distributing electric current which makes it impossible for a governmental agency, whether municipal or other, to carry it on efficiently. Of course, I believe nothing of the kind. Being a fairly reasonable person I admit that electricity can be generated and distributed quite as well by a municipal department, and that it is being done in various places. I will go farther and admit that, while I am confident that in general private enterprise gives better results, the service rendered by our utility companies is in general better in quality and cheaper than that rendered by municipal plants, it is quite possible for a municipal plant to be as efficiently managed as the plant of a well-managed utility company and to equal its service both in quality and cost. Such results would be exceptional. They are not typical or usual. The advantage is on the side of private enterprise.

Some of my correspondents have urged that the service rendered by the municipally owned and operated plants is cheaper than that rendered by the public utility corporations. I have been bombarded with figures purporting to demonstrate this. Let me say at once that I am not very much impressed by the statistical argumentation of this question. Defenders of private property and private enterprise make a mistake when they devote much time to statistical argument. Even if it could be shown that municipal ownership and operation ordinarily give the consumer service equal to that given by the utility companies, at a lower cost, I should still hold that the argument in favor of private ownership and enterprise was unanswerable. I should still be an individualist in the sense that President Hoover is an individualist. I will return to the point presently. For the moment I would dispose of some of the statistical stuff with which I have been bombarded.

Last spring Gov. Roosevelt of New York in a speech that was broadcast by radio, to which I listened with interest, charged that Canadian citizens served by the Hydroelectric Commission of the Province of Ontario receive much cheaper service than people in the State of New York who are served by the public utility companies of that State. Gov. Roosevelt's statement is being continually circulated by the propagandists of government ownership, notwithstanding the fact that it was immediately answered and completely refuted by Mr. Carlisle, of the board of directors of the Niagara-Hudson system. The unchallenged and unanswerable figures of Mr. Carlisle are not circulated by these propagandists, but ignored.

Let me cite some of the most striking of the figures: The Ontario Commission sold in the year 1928 within the Province of Ontario 3,061,545,371 kilowatt hours and received therefor the sum of $32,431,648. In the same period the Buffalo, Eastern and Niagara companies belonging to the Niagara-Hudson System sold 4,436,403,784 kilowatt hours and received therefor the sum of $32,911,782. In other words, the American companies supplied the amazing total of 1,374,858,413 kilowatt hours more than the Ontario Commission at a difference in cost of only $480,134. It is obvious that somewhere or other the Ontario charges exceed those of the American companies. Yet the American utility companies generated 20 per cent of their output by steampower, which the Canadian body did not have to do, and they paid very much higher wages.

More important than these things, however, is the fact that the Ontario Commission paid no taxes to municipal or provincial or federal governments, whereas the American utility companies paid to various municipalities and the State and Federal governments the immense sum of $4,546,413. It does not require any elaborate argument to show that share to the cost of Government in the same way as the American companies have to do, it would have had to add some four millions to the charges imposed upon its customers. It is equally clear that if the American companies went untaxed as the Canadian body does, they could have reduced the charges to consumers by more than four and a half millions of dollars without sacrificing one cent of their profits. On the other hand, it is equally clear that, under existing arrangements, the Canadians make up in their tax bills what the Americans pay in their light and power bills.

When the figures are thus analyzed the advantages are seen to be overwhelmingly on the side of private ownership and enterprise. In the same fiscal year of 1928 (and the figures are still more impressive for 1929, published since Mr. Carlisle's statement was issued last year) the entire Niagara-Hudson system supplied to all classes of consumers, domestic, agricultural and industrial, current of a gross value of $62,688,860. Of that sum household and farm consumption accounted for $14,937,189. But the companies in the Niagara-Hudson System paid a total of $10,118,867 in taxes in that year. Suppose that these companies had been on the same footing as the Ontario Commission in the matter of tax exemption. It would then have been possible for the companies, without the loss of a single cent of revenue, to reduce the cost of service to the full amount of the above-named tax payments exceeding ten millions of dollars. It could have charged the six hundred thousand and odd domestic and agricultural consumers $4,818,322 instead of $14,937,189. And that would have made the cost per kilowat hour less than half the cost paid by the Canadian consumer.

Is there anybody so ignorant of economics, even in the Senate of the United States, as to be unaware of the fact that the millions of dollars paid by our utility corporations in taxes should be credited to them when comparisons are instituted between them and tax-exempt municipal and State agencies? It would be easy to fill many columns of your space with similar exposures of the manner in which the issue is confused by the advocates of Government ownership.

After all, the statistical argument is not final or conclusive. If it would be shown that, with just allowance made for taxation and everything else, municipal ownership and operation give equal service at lower cost I should still hold that private ownership and private enterprise are better. What is to be borne in mind is that every extension of public ownership lessens the scope for private enterprise and initiative. That is the deadly evil. It leads to stagnation and decay. We need to keep open and ever expanding the channels of individuals incentive and initiative. Recovery from our present economic depression will be slow or rapid in proportion as the energies of our people are restrained or free. President Hoover has never manifested sounder statesmanship than in his courageous defense of the principles of that socialized individualism which he expounded a decade or so ago. More power to him!

JUST FOLKS

CONTRAST

Drama is everywhere about,
With all its light and shade,
Even where little children shout
A scene is being played.

Conflict and contrast everywhere
Are flashed before our eyes;
A bride puts on her raiment fair,
Next door a woman dies.

Into a doctor's waiting room
A mother brought a child,
And one who sat there in the gloom
Looked at the babe and smiled.

"The little one's in pain," said he,
"An earache," she replied;
"Though last I came, I'd like to be
The first to pass inside."

"Quite so! Quite so! And gladly I
My place will let you take,
Like you I've often wondered why
A baby's ear should ache."

"Outside there is a man," she said
"Who sensed my need was great,
He knows what earaches mean, and he Seemed very glad to wait."

"That man," the doctor low replied,
"Will very soon be dead."
"What's wrong with him" the woman cried.
"Cancer," the doctor said.

If the Lion and the Tiger Fight, the Jackal Carries Off the Meat.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

AMERICANS would have fewer troubles if they would make a greater effort to understand one another.

As it is, they frequently separate into opposing factions and fight one another tooth and nail over some question of morals or manners when all the while they are in perfect agreement in all that matters.

For example, all Americans decent and sane enough to deserve attention look with disgust on a drunk man who is noisy, sick or quarrelsome.

All alike are aware that the control and regulation of the traffic in alcohol is a problem as old as civilization, and all agree that some control is necessary while men in their cups continue to be a menace or a nuisance to the sober.

All agree that the saloon system, under which distillers and brewers became rich and used their wealth to corrupt public officials, was an evil that deserved destruction.

And all agree that the bootleg system, under which racketeers and criminals become rich and use their wealth to corrupt public officials, is an evil as great if not worse and equally deserving of destruction.

All agree, with the Wickersham Commission, that the cause of decency is not served by "bribery, extortion, theft, conspiracy, perjury and forgery" among men chosen to enforce the law.

All are agreed, in short, that the country should not go back to the evils of the old system nor longer endure the evils of the present one.

What, then, is left to quarrel about?

There is no difference of opinion concerning the evils of the past or the present, and there are no plans for the future sufficiently definite to consolidate public opinion.

Calling names can serve no good purpose.

Fixing the blame for evils that trouble us now will accomplish nothing worth while.

The past, with its blame and its folly, is ended. All that need concern us now is the self-evident fact that we are in the middle of a bad fix and sorely in need of a way out.

It is no time for recrimination and petty quarreling while the house is afire.

The only thing that matters is saving the house.

No matter whose folly set it afire—no matter what plan is adopted to protect it in the future—the one urgent business of the moment is to put the fire out.

Surely—no matter what went before or may follow—there is enough common sense among us to avoid complete surrender to the flames.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Record of Congress.

New York Times.

If a balance sheet were to be drawn up for this expiring session of Congress the largest credit entry would undoubtedly be that it did pull itself together and do what was absolutely necessary. Items on the debit side could be accumulated so as to make an appallingly long column. It is needless to specify them. When the books are finally made up by the historian, the ill will which existed between Congress and the President, with a frequent lack of cooperation, will be underscored. Particularly in the matter of the bill to enlarge loans to veterans of the war did both houses of Congress display a headlong willingness to go counter to the soundest financial opinion, while yielding to the demands of an organized minority. This action will not only long be remembered to the discredit of the Seventy-first Congress, but will undoubtedly be an ominous and costly precedent for similar legislation in the future. Nor can any one maintain that the long and futile wrangles with the President over drought relief and the Red Cross were edifying in themselves or pleasing to the country.

Worst Ever.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It may be said with truth that since April, 1929, to the present day, whenever this Congress has been in session there has been war between it and the President. Other Executives have had their share of obstruction and hostility from the national legislature. But the most experienced observers at Washington can not easily recall a more continuously contentious Congress.

Golden Days for Investigators.

Chicago Tribune.

Washington observers find that Mr. Nye's expense accounts for himself and associates have opened a new world of pleasurable expectations for statesmen who travel to improve the legislative mind and to gather information useful in the Nation's business. Mr. Nye seems to have taken it for granted that a great and generous Nation would not want its legislators stinted when they investigate. Investigation is the life of statesmanship and the policy is to make it attractive. Hence liberal expense accounts and indulgence to find a point of national interest in a lovely scene at a suitable time of the year.

Mr. Nye may have broken new ground, but the golden days are yet to come when the traveling congressman on the Nation's business will be lifted from the drawing room status to that of the private car. Investigations will never really get under way until the Government is in private enterprise up to its ears.

News From Kansas.

Topeka Capital.

Some senators accomplish things and others don't. A great many people dislike Nebraska because it persists in sending George Norris to the Senate. But this year, after fighting a decade, Senator Norris saw two of his ideas incorporated into action of Congress: Public control of Muscle Shoals and a constitutional amendment to end "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

Whiskers in Politics.

The famous "pink whiskers" of Senator-elect Lewis may yet become a campaign issue. His friends in Illinois are booming him to shoulder the Democratic burden in 1932.

Muscle Shoals seems to be anything but, from the way Congress talks and talks and talks. To date it is used merely to run windmills in Washington.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Revolutionary Latin-American Governments Should Be Recognized if They Are Prepared to Discharge International Obligations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When a government achieves power in a Latin-American republic, when it is accepted by the people of that country, it is unwise for another country to attempt to go behind the returns and say that the new government came into authority unlawfully and should not be recognized.

If there should be important opposition or division among the people of that country regarding the new rulers, the assumption by the United States that they had achieved power illegally is the surest way to unite the population behind the new regime, thus leaving this country in a still more difficult position.

Respect for civil authority and the orderly success of administrations are not strong points in many countries of Latin-America. Notwithstanding this Nation's revolutionary origin, American respect for the will of the majority is something ingrained and unquestioned. It is something that is not quite understood to the South as yet. Too many hot-headed politicians, who are also military men, can not suffer defeat without feeling that they have been betrayed, and revenge must be had, not at the next election, but now, and by the sword.

Our safe policy is in demanding protection for our nationals from any new government and respect for its international obligations, and not in determining how that government came to power, if it is actually ruling a people who accept its mandates, whether through choice or necessity.

Evidence regarding illegal accession to power, and determination that the people are hostile to a new government, are questions difficult for a foreign nation to establish, even if that were its business. And if established to the satisfaction of a foreign government, its mere pronouncement to that effect might well be the one thing that would consolidate the people behind the new revolutionary government. So long as the republican form of government is maintained, and willingness to deal justly with other nations is manifested, the United States should not bother about the irregularities of new regimes.

FEDERALIST.

Zoo Should Have Fine Songbird House, as Well as a Snake Palace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As I am leaving for New York City I wish to express to you my enjoyment of your paper during my stay in Washington. I shall continue to take your paper for Mr. Coolidge's contributions alone.

While I am writing I will say that I, too, have stood before the reptile house, admired its superb location and its fine architecture, then toured it within from end to end and all sides, feasting my eyes on the exhibit therein.

May I venture a hope that at some future time, after our country has enjoyed and digested, in part, at least, the rich treat for eyes and mind alike in the inspection and study of the most repulsive and loathsome portion of creation, it may erect a splendid dwelling place likewise for birds?

It is to be hoped also that if such a house should be built, the birds will be chosen not merely nor chiefly for their beauty of plumage, but for their beauty of song.

May we not look forward to the time when our National City Zoo, the city which is the pride of America, shall major in birds rather than in snakes?

Socialists Do Not Stop at Muscle Shoals, They Would Take Over All Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congratulations on your splendid editorial on Muscle Shoals. It is the first I've seen indicating the socialistic and communistic influence behind the Norris bill.

It is to be regretted the press has not considered this angle of the proposition more freely and enlightened the public on the motives and purposes of those fathering the legislation.

The program is more elaborate than mere Government ownership of the electric properties. It extends to banks, communications, radio, telegraph, telephone, coal, steel, insurance, railroads and, to quote a leading member of the group, "many businesses now generally considered private."

The investigation of utilities has afforded me an excellent glimpse of the progress being actually made by the socialist groups, sometimes unknowingly assisted by a part of the conservative press and news agencies.

Patriotic Parson Says Congress Gives Him Pain in the Neck.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been a Republican most of my life, but the lack of sense shown in this Congress by the majority gives me such a pain in the neck as inspires a hope that the Democrats may get a chance in the next session. Except in the President the Republican party has exhibited nothing but the worst kind of peanut politics.

Ritters Leave City Today for Stay in Florida

To Build Summer Home in Oyster Harbors in Bay State.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter will leave today for Lake Wales, Fla., to pass a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Ritter usually leave Washington for the South earlier in the season, but the mild winter tempted them to remain here a while longer.

For several seasons the Ritters have passed their summers in Cape Cod, and now they have decided to build a summer home at Oyster Harbors, near Osterville, Mass. The house will follow the low and rambling architecture of so many houses on the cape, which lend it much of its unique charm. The outside will be of hand-split cedar shingles which will give it a seasoned look in keeping with the bleak coast of Cape Cod, with its rough sea and sweeping sand dunes. The property runs through from West Bay to the coast with a private bathing beach, and at the back a yacht basin is being built, where visitors may "tie up."

Mrs. Ritter will probably have many summer house parties when the house is ready for the season.

Dr. and Mrs. John Ryan Devereux have issued cards for a tea on Sunday at 5 o'clock at their home, Portledge, in Chevy Chase in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Raymond F. Crist, jr.

Tea Attracts Many Leaders Of Democracy

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross Presides at Salient Club Affair.

Politics, attire and tea, the 1931 women's trinity, formed the basis for a brilliant gathering of ladies of the National Democratic Party at a tea presided over by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming and now Democratic committeewoman for the District, yesterday in the Women's National Democratic Club on New Hampshire avenue northwest.

The tea early took on the aspect of a pre-Easter showing of the latest creations in millinery and its kindred sciences. If the ladies are truly representative of what the "well-dressed woman will wear," there is every indication that laces will predominate this spring with chic and smartly tailored suits coming in second.

The tea, given in honor of the gathering hosts of feminine democracy, was planned on the last day of Congress in order that the many ladies of the Congress might attend. Their presence gave the assemblage somewhat the atmosphere of a political rally.

With Mrs. Ross in the receiving line were Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Mrs. Mary T. Norton and Mrs. Jouette Shouse, all of whom are high in the councils of the Democratic party.

Mrs. Ross wore a floor-sweeping gown of brilliant blue velvet with a jacket of shimmery lace and beads, while Representative Ruth Bryan Owen was in a black hat with a huge ostrich plume which fell to her shoulders. Several others wore plumed hats.

Mrs. Norton, representative from New Jersey, had a tricornered hat with a nose veil. Her dress was of black with rippling lace. Mrs. Shouse wore a gown in which delicate black lace showed through sheer black chiffon.

Others who were expected to attend were Mrs. John R. Estbridge, of Delaware; Mrs. Lillian S. Abbott, of Connecticut; Mrs. Edgar Alexander, of Georgia; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, of Illinois; Mrs. Florence G. Farley, of Kansas; Mrs. Tom Kerr, of New York.

The piece de resistance from a gastronomic standpoint was a sugar-coated donkey with eyes of raisins, served with the tea. The donkey, insignia of the Democratic party, is always served at the club's celebrations and receptions.

Higher Army Rank Looms For Bachelor

Brigadier General Seen Slated to Win Higher Rank.

Another laurel seems slated for Brig. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, assistant chief of staff, in charge of Army personel, for rumor declares, he will soon be promoted to the rank of major general.

Gen. Bowley is among the most popular of the Army bachelors in Washington, and his appointment will top an outstanding career at an early age. For several years he has been the ranking brigadier general of the Army, and has a brilliant record behind him as a commander of Field Artillery during the World War. He received his commission as brigadier general at the end of the war, and was in command at Fort Bragg for several years, during which time he became widely known and popular throughout North Carolina.

Mrs. Harry L. Fairbairn, of Ventnor, N. J., and her son, Mr. Harry L. Fairbairn, of Ottsburgh, Pa., are at Wardman Park Hotel.

Hawks Flies Into Snow On Way to Capital Lunch

Capt. Frank Hawks made another of his speedy New York-to-Washington plane excursions yesterday, this time to be host at a luncheon given at the Metropolitan Club in honor of David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the Navy. Hawks used Ingalls' ship on the recent southwestern trip he made with Will Rodgers in behalf of drought relief.

The holder of many speed records told the group of naval officers and other guests at the luncheon that he was forced to fly blind through a snowstorm 15 or 20 minutes after taking off from Roosevelt Field yesterday forenoon. He left for New York shortly after the luncheon.

Play Given Tomorrow By Baptist Thespians

Washington Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented by the B. Y. P. U. and Drake Class of Calvary Baptist Church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Woodward Hall.

Directing the play will be J. W. Wakefield, who also will take the character role of Rip. Mr. Wakefield has played on the stage several years once as Rodney Harper in the original production of Frank Bacon's "Lightnin.'"

Statue to Honor Late S. T. Mather

Monument Will Be Placed on Banks of Potomac; Hoover Approves.

The late Stephen T. Mather, first director of the National Park Planning Commission, will be honored with a statue to be erected on the banks of the Potomac, under provisions of a bill signed yesterday by President Hoover.

Approval of a Senate bill was given by the House and President Hoover signed the measure as soon as it was presented to him for approval.

Mather was born in San Francisco and later made his official home in Chicago, but Washington was the scene of his efforts for several years in the course of which he worked hard to preserve the beauty spots of the Nation as national parks and to make the beauty of these more widely known to the people.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Federal Radio Commission is tabulating the time devoted to educational programs on all of the 615 broadcasting stations over the country in an effort to ascertain whether the demand of educators for 15 per cent of the broadcasting facilities is justified.

Questionnaires have been sent to every station and replies have already been received from most of them. The analysis of the answers will show just how much time both in number of hours and percentage of operation is being used for educational purposes, according to the broadcasters' own interpretations.

A week was selected for the survey in the middle of the usual school term and should represent a better than average showing.

The Dixie Jubilee Singers, Steffy Goldner, harpist, and Oliver Smith, tenor, will offer entertainment in a half-hour program tonight. (WRC, 9:30 p. m.)

THE second most expensive radio team is said to be Gene and Glenn, the early birds (WRC, 8 a. m.), reported to receive $3,000 weekly. Amos 'n' Andy top all radio entertainment teams with a weekly pay check in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Tonight's birthday party will present Sam Houston as "reincarnated" guest of honor (WRC, 9 p. m.)

An announcer on Station WOL the other morning gave credit to Arthur Pryor as the composer of "On the Mall" march. It is our impression that this popular composition was written by Edwin Franko Goldman, conductor of band concerts in Central Park, of which the Mall is a part.

RADIO sales in 1930 were around $600,000,000 as compared with $835,000,000 in 1929, Bond Geddes, of the Radio Manufacturers Association, estimates.

Stage players taking part in the Radio Round-Up tonight (WMAL, 11:30 p. m.) will be Dorothea James, John Walker Hundley, Sylvia Clark and Jimmy Riley.

Many authorities on rose culture will come before the microphone in a series of talks given through cooperation of the American Rose Society, beginning this afternoon (WRC, 3 p. m.).

Rugs of two-inch pile are being laid in the WABC studios, New York. Rugs help absorb sound waves, diminishing reverberation—therefore, the thicker the better.

A GENERAL tightening up intended to eliminate waste time, has been ordered. Stations without any time limit must maintain a regular operating schedule of twelve hours each broadcasting day after May 1.

The Radio Guild presentation tomorrow afternoon will be "Paola and Francesca." (WRC, 4 p. m.)

A number of musicians spend hours each day sitting in the broadcasting studios of New York, but seldom get on the air. This group is called the "stand-by" orchestra. It must remain in the studio ready to play at a moment's notice.

If something happens to a wire line carrying a "remote control" broadcast, or if for any reason any program ceases, a red light glows in the stand-by studio, and the orchestra starts. Its performance may be only two or three minutes, or it may last half an hour or more.

SO great is the demand for admission to the New York broadcasting studios that the supply of tickets is frequently exhausted a month ahead of time.

HOW IT BEGAN

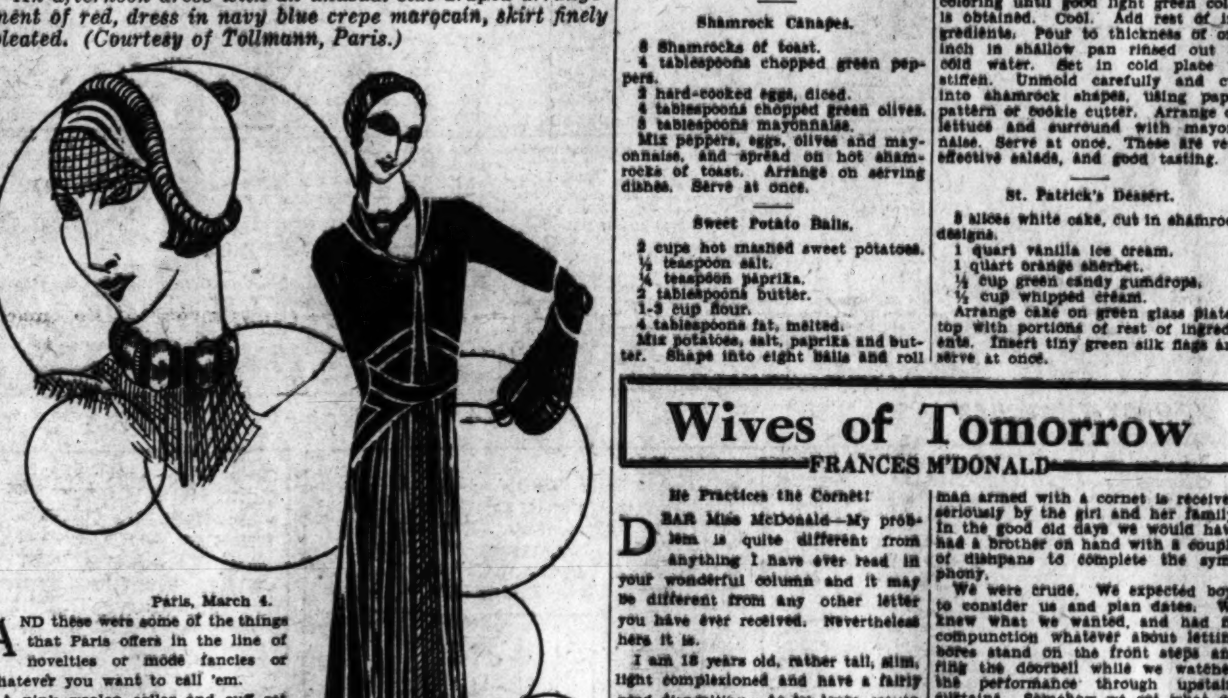

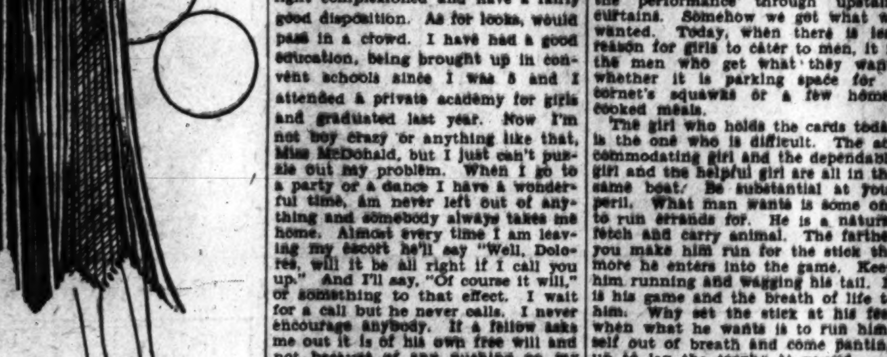

TOMORROW—Giving the Bride Away; How John D. Got His Start; He Who Fights and Runs Away——"

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

An afternoon dress with an unusual side-draped arrangement of red, dress in navy blue crepe marocain, skirt finely pleated. (Courtesy of Tollmann, Paris.)

Paris, March 4.

AND these were some of the things that Paris offers in the line of novelties or mode fancies or whatever you want to call 'em.

A pink woolen collar and cuff set trimmed with two little flat bands of patent leather as a border, and a patent leather monogram on one point of the collar.

A double boutonniere worn in the buttonhole of a stand-up collar • • • one bunch of the flowers nesting against my lady's neck, stems threaded through the buttonhole, and another bunch of flowers the same size, on the under outside of the collar.

Picture a large necklace which lies flat around the throat just at the base of the neck and then picture this as being attached to the otherwise collarless neckline of a street dress, and you have a novel way of finishing a street dress at the neck and wearing costume jewelry with a high neckline which, as you know, is pretty difficult to do.

• • • •

A so-called evening wrap which looked like a huge white fox scarf collar made of two skins, thrown carelessly over the shoulder, but which had the ends of the scarf sewn in such a way as to form armholes through which the arms could be slipped and the collar thus held in place; either around the neck; or these sleeves dropped nonchalantly to rest right at the elbow, and the fur allowed to fall gracefully across the back from arm to arm, much as one often carries one's evening wrap.

• • • •

If you would like to find out what a lovely lady wears in underthings these modern days, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And I can assure you that it isn't red flannel, or should I say "flannels?" Whatever it is you may be sure that it is the very last word in summer lingerie, and that there is absolutely no reason why you should not have as much of it as your little heart could possibly desire. That's because you can make it yourself so very easily from the illustrated directions that you will find in this leaflet.

• • • •

Another one of the unsketchables—the adorable unsketchables I guess I'll call 'em, because every now and then we see a gown that is so lovely that our artistic temperament gets the better of our previous experiences, and we try to make you see a stunning color combination with only a black and white medium in which to show it to you.

Well, that's what happened today when I tried to sketch this lovely Tellmann dress of navy blue crepe marocain, which was trimmed in red crepe at the sleeves and side front. The sleeves and skirt, by the way, were finely pleated and the whole gown was very much lovelier than I could possibly sketch it for you!

• • • •

But the little trick of finishing and fastening the high neckline of a woolen sport dress with jewelry, is quite sketchable. It's not really a high neckline, but a neckline that ends right at the base of the neck, as you can see in the little sketch in the corner. And the way it finishes and fastens, is with a choker necklace which is sewn right to the dress, and fastens in front or back—wherever the dress itself fastens, see? That solves the problem of what to wear in the way of jewelry for a street ensemble; I'll say!

You will always find it worth your while to look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in the Big Sunday Post.

Au Revoir.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 6 p. m.

March 5, according to the ruling configurations, is propitious for almost every purpose and action. The signs especially favor business investment and settlement of financial affairs. Professional people will gain in prestige while others will be in a fair way to attain their ambitions.

Children born on this March 5 will cause considerable worry in their early years as a result of physical ailments. Once this trying period is overcome, they will rapidly develop along normal lines. Their characters will be strong, their dispositions affectionate, and their ideals high.

If you were born on a March 5, you forget that conceit is a balloon at the mercy of any pin prick. People are quite ready to appreciate your good points. It is not necessary to emphasize them, in season and out of season, by use of the first personal pronoun. There is no call for any one to "hide their light under a bushel;" on the other hand, there is no need of a permanent conflagration.

You are well informed, although not a deep thinker. You are a great reader, but not a student. You are considerate—chiefly, however, of yourself. You are more superficial than fundamental. You are ambitious, but not over industrious. Any undertaking, in which you are not called upon to play the star role, is not pleasing to you. Fate has not destined you to be a leader. You, however, think otherwise, as you want to be the wheel, not merely a cog.

Your convictions are strong, and always loudly voiced. You are always going to do something worthwhile, but never succeed in "going over the top." You tire just as the limelight ceases to play on you, and just as soon as you realize that others take you at their valuation, and not at yours. Your home life does not hold out any great hopes of harmony or happiness. Your mate, whoever he or she may be, will never be willing for you to be the entire orchestra. Contentment with yourself and discontent with others is revealed in your horoscope.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for a lemon verbena while it is in the house. MRS. THOMAS T. T.

Keep it in a sunny window and water it every day. It must also have plenty of fresh air and should have its foliage sprayed with cold water at least once a week.

What is the remedy for a flat, shell-shaped fungus that has attacked my lilac bush? It appears only on a few branches and is so far quite close to the ground. Is this a serious trouble? ELSIE B.

There is no remedy for this fungus. Would advise the prompt removal of all branches on which it is present.

Please suggest a remedy for the leaves of my arborvitae, which are turning brown. MRS MARY G. T.

The American arborvitae has a habit of shedding a few of its leaves during the winter, also here and there the leaves turn brown, but this does no harm except to appearance. I think from the twig you sent me that your plant has had a slight attack of a fungus disease. Better spray it at this time and before growth starts in the spring with copper solution.

The buds of my poinsettia are now turning red. Should I give it some food in the form of liquid manure? HANNAH G. L.

Yes.

Please tell me the necessary care of a cape jasmine slip. I have had a rooted cutting given to me. MRS. WILLIAM F. T.

The cape jasmine requires a rich but sandy soil. When growing rapidly it demands a great deal of moisture; when growth ceases less moisture may be given. After each flowering period it is well to cut the plant back.

Can you tell me if an ice plant would be suitable for planting in a rock garden? POLLEY P.

The ice plant (mesembryan) is a dwarf, trailing annual quite desirable as a rock-garden plant.

Please tell me what to do to rid my house fern of small brown spots on the upper leaves of the fronds, also along the midribs. I am sure these must be insects known as scale. MRS. EARNEST T.

They are no doubt scale. The only practical way to rid a plant of these tenacious pests is to scrub them away with a brush. In the future, to prevent a return of the insects, it will be necessary to spray the plant three times a week with cold water. Be sure, when spraying, to see that the water reaches the underside of the leaves, as this is the favorite haunt of the scale.

Please tell me if I could now remove the dead tops from my peony plants. I was ill in the fall and this was one of the things that did not get finished. MISS ANN F. T.

Yes.

Should primroses be kept in the sun and be watered every day? MISS NANCY T.

Yes.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

He Practices the Cornet!

DEAR Miss McDonald—My problem is quite different from anything I have ever read in your wonderful column and it may be different from any other letter you have ever received. Nevertheless here it is.

I am 18 years old, rather tall, slim, light complexioned and have a fairly good disposition. As for looks, would pass in a crowd. I have had a good education, being brought up in convent schools since I was 8 and I attended a private academy for girls and graduated last year. Now I'm not boy crazy or anything like that, Miss McDonald, but I just can't puzzle out my problem. When I go to a party or a dance I have a wonderful time, am never left out of anything and somebody always takes me home. Almost every time I am leaving my escort he'll say "Well, Dolores, will it be all right if I call you up." And I'll say, "Of course it will," or something to that effect. I wait for a call but he never calls. I never encourage anybody. If a fellow asks me out it is of his own free will and not because of any pushing on my part. I know quite a few nice boys in my neighborhood and recently I went to a very nice house party with one of them. I had a wonderful time and when I was going in the house the fellow who took me said, "Well, Dolores, I'm glad you had a nice time and I don't wonder any more why your friends call you 'Cheery.' Would you come riding with me some night when I get my car out of the garage?" I said, "Why I'd love to go for a ride with you, Ted, only let me know ahead of time, won't you?" Ted has had his car out now for a month, but I have never heard from him. Now, I'm not broken-hearted or anything like that, but it seems strange to me. How does it appear to you, Miss McDonald?

Recently a fellow I knew in grammar school called me up and asked me if it would be all right if he came over and brought his cornet, as he thought I could help him on his time. (I play the piano.) He came over that night and about eight times since and we always have a delightful time. Every time he leaves he always says, "I'll call you up sometime, Dolores, and we'll go out some place and enjoy ourselves. Will that be all right?" And I make my usual answer of "Why, of course, Harry, that would be lovely." But Harry never calls, only when he wants some help on his time. About a month ago a girl friend of mine informed me that Harry certainly had a crush on me. She said, "I asked him the other day if he didn't think you were a nice girl and he said that he thought you were the best in the United States." About a week later Harry's fraternity held a dance, but did he ask the girl he thought was the "best in the United States?" I'll say he didn't, and it isn't as if I couldn't dance, because he's danced with me three and four dances in succession in a dance hall. But, that's always the way. I can't understand it. Sincerely,

DOLORES.

Be difficult, my child, be difficult. Be heavily dated a few times when the visitation with the cornet calls up. After a while he will begin to realize that after all there are other things a girl might do with a perfectly good evening besides suffering with an earnest youth determined to conquer a cornet. Truly, I can not imagine what would have happened to a lad who had suggested doing his cornet practicing by way of brightening up my girlhood days. But girls are made of sterner stuff today. And even a man armed with a cornet is received seriously by the girl and her family. In the good old days we would have had a brother on hand with a couple of dishpans to complete the symphony.

We were crude. We expected boys to consider us and plan dates. We knew what we wanted, and had no compunction whatever about letting bores stand on the front steps and ring the doorbell while we watched the performance through upstairs curtains. Somehow we got what we wanted. Today, when there is less reason for girls to cater to men, it is the men who get what they want, whether it is parking space for a cornet's squawks or a few home-cooked meals.

The girl who holds the cards today is the one who is difficult. The accommodating girl and the dependable girl and the helpful girl are all in the same boat. Be substantial at your peril. What man wants is some one to run errands for. He is a natural fetch and carry animal. The farther you make him run for the stick the more he enters into the game. Keep him running and wagging his tail. It is his game and the breath of life to him. Why set the stick at his feet when what he wants is to run himself out of breath and come panting up to lay the trophy at yours?

Try playing his way for a change. Be difficult, instead of helpful. And just as a favor to me tell that cornetist to hire a hall. If he recovers from the shock he will think more of you than he ever has thus far, and if he does not, what harm?

Your Name

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Bush" is one of the relatively few names whose original meanings are clearly indicated by their present forms. Its full significance is "he who lives near the bush or thicket." However, there is evidence that in many cases this name means "he who lives at the sign of the bush." It will be recalled that in early days a bush hanging over a doorway was the commonly recognized sign of a tavern. This name is found in the earliest English records, but it is ultimately of German origin. Its common modern German form is "Busch." Its commonest English variations are "Bosk," "Buss" and "Busse." Old English records frequently show this name with its Latinized form "de Bosco." A certain William de Bosco is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous list of thirteenth century English names. That same document includes the names of Henry del Busk, Matilda Bus and Robertus Busse.

The family name "Eagle" is found in the earliest English records. It generally has reference to the bird of that name, which was considered as a symbol of bravery and nobility. Hence, in most cases it was first applied as a nickname to persons who were thought to possess those qualities. However, there is evidence that it was sometimes applied to persons who lived in dwellings which displayed the picture or image of an eagle as a means of identification. Occasionally it is the modern form of the Anglo-Saxon "Aegel." "Aegel" was an old personal name meaning "dread" and "terror." The Hundred Rolls mentions a William Eagle and a Cunstance Eagle.

The personal name "Harold" is of Germanic origin. It may be translated "army might" or "mighty army."

AN UNEXPECTED SQUEEZE

WEST: ♠ 7-6-3; ♥ K-Q-J-4; ♦ K-Q-2; ♣ Q-5-3	NORTH / WEST / EAST / Dealer / SOUTH	EAST: ♠ 5-2; ♥ 9-7-5; ♦ 10-7-5-4; ♣ 8-7-6-2
	SOUTH: ♠ A-K-Q-J-10-4; ♥ A-8; ♦ 8; ♣ A-K-9-4

WITH the above hand at Auction the bidding would have been: South one Spade, West two Hearts, North and East pass, South two Spades.

As Contract South might bid three Spades in which case North would advance to four on the strength of his Diamond Ace; if a forcing bidder South might bid two Spades and go to four when North bid Diamonds. What actually happened was that South started with the artifical two-Club bid and West bid two Hearts. North and East passed, and South bid four Spades.

South's two-Club bid, followed by the four Spades, was intended to show North that South had a game hand at Spades, with no alternative. Had South started with four Spades, North would have taken the bid to be preemptive; and South wanted North to bid if he had an Ace and a King. In that case South could have bid for a slam. North was not justified in inviting a slam with only one trick in his hand; therefore the final contract was four Spades with South the Declarer.

West led the King of Hearts which South won with the Ace. Declarer then saw that utilizing North's two trumps on South's two losing Clubs probably would produce twelve tricks, so South led the Ace and King of Clubs to tricks 2 and 3. A small Club which North ruffed at trick 4 drew West's Queen of Clubs and, by making South's Nine good, eliminated the need of a second ruff; so the adverse trumps were exhausted at once.

Declarer now might have faced his cards, claiming twelve tricks; but the South who played the hand saw the possibility of a squeeze if West had the King and Queen of Hearts and the King and Queen of Diamonds. If West did not have these cards, trying the squeeze would not lose.

South led three more trumps and the Nine of Clubs. When the Club was led North had left the Ace and Jack of Diamonds, and the Ten of Hearts; West, attempting to guard two suits, also had the Queen of Hearts and King-Queen of Diamonds. But West had discarded before North, and it mattered not which discard he made. If a Diamond honor North would keep two Diamonds, if a Heart North would keep the Ace of Diamonds and the Ten of Hearts. Either way Declarer takes thirteen tricks.

SUGGESTED EXERCISING.

G. L. W. writes: Will you describe setting-up exercises that are especially helpful in preventing constipation?

REPLY.

Any exercise is better than physical torpor. But there are some that are better than others. The best of the gymnasium exercises are those which bend the body and those which make use of the heavy muscles of the abdominal wall. Since the chest is splinted by the ribs and the pelvis by the pelvic bones, most of the bending takes place in the abdomen and neck. Bending of the abdomen pushes the abdominal organs around and that is what we are driving at.

An old one is the Army setting-up exercise. It consists in taking the position of a soldier and then bending forward with the hands and arms pointing downward. If the fingers touch the toes while the knees are held stiff the exerciser is happy. Those built on the tape plan—long arms, long trunk and short legs—find it easy to touch the toes. Those otherwise architectured will have to bend the knees or leave their toes untouched. If the recoil is carried to a marked backward bend of the body, so much the better.

Bending the body forward and backward while in the sitting posture is even better for one who is trying to overcome constipation. Another set of exercises of about the same type are executed from the prone position. Lying flat, the legs are raised to the vertical position. A variant is to cause the trunk to the vertical position. Another variant is to lie on the back with the head lower than the feet and then to raise the body to the vertical. To do this most people will need to put the feet in stirrups, or to catch them under something solid. This exercise is varied by carrying the legs to the vertical position.

There are different methods of massaging the abdomen as, for instance, rolling a heavy ball over it. Pounding the abdomen or massaging it with the hands is somewhat effective.

Of the various forms of out-of-door exercise, horseback riding is best. Jolting the abdomen and using the muscles of the walls are the aims. Therefore, a trotting horse is better for this purpose than is a finished easy saddler. A wagon without springs and a rough road are better than an easy automobile on a concrete roadway. Among the sports, wrestling is better than boxing, and boxing is better than tiddledewinks. And while all this is true, the best of exercises is no more than a part of the cure.

Crowds Watch as Girl Walks on Ledge Asleep

Denver, March 4.—Betty Allen, 22, went sleep-walking, first around her room and then out a window.

She managed to step safely onto a small ledge outside her room window and, clutching the wall, walked, inch by inch, for more than ten feet.

Meanwhile crowds, blocking traffic, were spellbound by the feat of Miss Allen, who was clothed only in short trunks. The crowd attracted the attention of a patrolman, who was a block away. Hurrying to the scene, he aided the hotel clerk in reaching out a window and grabbing Miss Allen.

MAL S. DAUGHERTY CONVICTED IN FRAUD

Daugherty filled these in for a total of $5,350, which amount was credited to his account, and which sum was secured by a note, bearing Mr. Perrill's signature, but which Mr. Perrill could not recall having signed.

Prosecutor Norman McLean argued that Daugherty and not Perrill wanted the $5,350. He said approximately $12,000 went into Daugherty's accounts on loans credited to others from December 1, 1929, to January 31, 1930. He said Daugherty owed the bank all he could legally borrow and that his wife owed $42,000, and that nothing had been paid back.

With NELSON B. BELL

AT this stage of the motion picture industry's development, why is a screen trailer?

In a recent discussion of the matter with the executive director of one of the principal downtown, first-run houses, I suspect that I gave the impression of being completely daft by advancing the view that the patchwork strips of film designed to "sell" audiences on incoming attractions, as often as not do more harm than good, and, in course of time, are sure to be abolished as nothing more valuable than a relic of a less enlightened day. However, that is my story, even if I am stuck with it.

In the early days of motion picture exhibition, when runs were short and coming attractions were always in doubt because there were so few desirable films that they could not be booked with any surety any length of time in advance, the trailer may have served a useful purpose. Nowadays—especially in the bizarre and eye-straining form in which some of them are gotten up—they are superfluous and sorry makeshifts, frequently more irritating than enticing to those they are intended to interest.

The preparation of an attractive, forceful and alluring trailer is a difficult task. It is akin to condensing a novel into a few paragraphs, or a full-length play into the briefest sketch. Not one out of a hundred is sufficiently well prepared to fulfill the purpose for which it was designed. Not less than 99 out of the same hundred are so inefficiently compiled as to defeat their own end in the view of the majority of those who view them.

Furthermore, they interrupt the program for which admission charges have been paid to the theater—particularly since the theater official intrusted with the laying out of the program usually deems it smart showmanship to insert his trailers at points where they will be sure to bisect portions of the entertainment in which the customers are most deeply concerned. The idea is to spot them where they can not be overlooked and therefore will be most annoying.

No one recalls better than I do myself that a few years ago this column said something commendatory about the trailers and the artistic strides that had been taken in their preparation following the coming of sound and speech to the screen. Yes, I said it. But that was a few years ago and my views have since changed.

Some day some real showman will have the courage to eliminate trailers from his programs entirely and the public will fall before him on its collective face in grateful obeisance.

With the coming of tonight's 9 o'clock performance, one of a tribe long absent from the silver sheet will make his reappearance at the RKO-Keith Theater in the person of Tom Moore.

Back in the era of silence, when he was the husband of Alice Joyce and Renee Adoree, reading from left to right, Tom Moore was one of the most engaging and most popular of the younger leading men. Brother Owen was a trifle more facile comedian and Brother Matt maybe a little better character actor, but all three of the boys were rated in the first flight and were doing well. As Joe Penner would say, "Then came the war"—or something.

Perhaps Tom's appearance in a featured role with Jack Holt and Constance Cummings in "The Last Parade" may be construed as meaning that the Moore boys have started on theirs.

Speaking of casts, England is well represented on the roster of players in "Body and Soul," cofeaturing Charles Farrell and Elissa Landi, at the Fox beginning tomorrow. Ian MacLaren, Pat Somerset, Crauford Kent, Dennis D'Auburn and Douglas Dray all hail from the Tight Little Isle.

Although Signorina Landi was born in Venice, Italy, she is said to have been educated in England and to have made her stage and picture debut there.

And, while we are at it, John Garrick, "the Prince of Wales of pictures," opposite Jeanette MacDonald, in "The Lottery Bride," at the Rialto, beginning today, made his fortune when the show he was with went broke. "The Wishing Well," on tour from Australia, closed after four days in Los Angeles, but that was long enough for the picture people to spot John and sign him to a term contract.

Robert Chisholm, making his screen debut in the same picture, has sung in Arthur Hammerstein stage productions for five years and was taken out of the cast of "Sweet Adeline" for his present assignment.

Next week's lineup: Rialto, Jeanette MacDonald and Joe E. Brown, in "The Lottery Bride;" Fox, Charles Farrell and Elissa Landi, in "Body and Soul;" Earle, Leon Janney and Lewis S. Stone, in "Father's Son;" Palace, Clara Bow, in "No Limit;" RKO-Keith's, Jack Holt and Constance Cummings, in "The Last Parade;" Columbia, Douglas Fairbanks and Bebe Daniels, in "Reaching for the Moon;" Metropolitan (beginning a month of week runs), Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, in "Sit Tight."

Yoo-hoo, Mabelle! I meant to tell you; those robins moved from the umbrella tree around to the Georgia pine by the corner of the front piazzeran-porch and built their nest right opposite the library windows, to make it easier for the cat—if we had a cat. I guess they're not quite bright.

In case you heard that blast, yesterday wasn't the first time they've brought down the house at Poli's!

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

ELECTRIC RATE CUT MEETING DUE TODAY

Discussions to Be Resumed and Modified Proposal Is Expected.

The prolonged discussion of what should be done to reduce the profits of the Potomac Electric Power Co. so as to bring about lower electric rates for District consumers will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning in the offices of the Public Utilities Commission.

William F. Ham, president, and S. Russel Bowen, general counsel of the power company, are prepared to reveal to the commission the recent action of the organization's directors in view of certain proposals of the utilities body to modify the six-year-old consent decree.

Just what this attitude will be is a matter of speculation, as the power officials have declined to make an announcement prior to the conference. Indications are, however, that the commission's plan will not be accepted as formerly presented, and may be rejected altogether. It is believed, though, that the company will have a counter-proposal that will provide for less reductions in the utility's revenue.

The commission proposed at the former parley that the consent decree be modified so that the maximum rate of return, before excess profits are measured, be set at 6¾ per cent, instead of 7½ per cent, and that the divisions of earnings thereafter with the public be proportional to the percentage of profits rather than on a 50-50 basis as now.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, has asked for an average rate charged consumers by the power company, and will seek to prove that, though the residential rate is next to the lowest in the United States, the average charge for electricity is far from being so low in the scale.

Technical Positions Examinations Open

Examinations for technical and professional positions paying salaries ranging from $1,620 to $4,600 will be held in the near future by the Civil Service Commission, Commissioner Thomas E. Campbell announced yesterday.

Positions to be filled include that of assistant naval architect, paying $2,600; associate geologist, $3,200; assistant geologist, $2,600; associate engineer, $3,200 to $3,700; assistant engineer, $2,600 to $3,100; park historian, $3,800 to $4,600; assistant mining engineer, $2,600; junior entomologist, $2,000 to $2,600; senior medical technician, $2,000; medical technician, $1,620; principal engineering inspector-superintendent, $2,300 to $2,900, and senior engineering inspector-foreman, $2,000 to $2,600.

Aimee's Daughter Weds Ship Purser

Roberta McPherson With Evangelist in Singapore, Says Dispatch.

Los Angeles, March 4 (A.P.).—In far-off Singapore, near the land where she was born nineteen years ago as the daughter of a missionary, Roberta Semple McPherson was married today to a ship purser, William Bradley Smyth, 23 years old.

Word of the wedding came to Angelus Temple here from the young woman's mother, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist. A cablegram from Mrs. McPherson, cofounder of the temple with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, told of the ceremony. It was a distinct surprise to temple associates and Mrs. Kennedy, who had no knowledge of the romance, which began shortly after the departure some weeks ago of Mrs. McPherson and her daughter for the Orient.

Congratulatory cables immediately were dispatched and Mrs. Kennedy, despite a breach in relations with her daughter, wished her grand daughter "all the happiness in the world." She added, however, she was not as surprised as she might have been. "I married when I was 15. Sister went to the altar when she was 17, so Roberta, being 19, waited longer than either of us."

2 Garages Opened After Padlocking

Liquor Violations Alleged in Premises Occupied by Glassman.

After being padlocked for one year under the nuisance section of the national prohibition act, garages at 2101 Fourteenth street northwest and 1319 L street northwest, formerly occupied by Herbert Glassman, were opened yesterday.

Deputy marshals went to the two establishments yesterday and removed seals, padlocks and placards.

The two garages were closed last March 4 after the Government had proved in a court trial that the liquor law had been violated in them on several occasions. Efforts of the owners to give bond and keep the garages open were opposed by the Government. In one of the cases, the property owner even went to the DiDistrict Court of Appeals, but that tribunal upheld the padlock.

Income Tax Facts

No. 32

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has at its command many sources for checking up delinquent taxpayers. One of these is the "information at source" provision of the revenue act.

Under this provision all individuals, corporations, partnerships, associations, executors, administrators, etc., are required to report to the Commissioners of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C., payment to another person "fixed or determinable income" of $1,500 or more during the calendar year, if the recipient of such payment is single. If the recipient is married, report must be made if the payments aggregated $3,500 or more. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return.

Fixed or determinable income includes salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, rents, royalties, etc. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments but a single payment must be reported. A separate return of information for each employe is required of employers.

Corporations are required to make also a separate report of dividends or distributions for each individual, fiduciary or partnership holder who was paid $500 or more during the calendar year 1930.

Information returns are required on Form 1099 and must be accompanied by a letter of transmittal on Form 1096. The filing date is on or before February 15.

Information returns, millions of which are filed annually, are carefully compared with the individual returns of taxpayers to whom payments are made. Many delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars are secured as the result of the examination of information returns.

CAR LINES PLANNING FIGHT FOR INCREASE

Traction Officials Are Silent on Letter Sent to Public Utility Body.

The Public Utilities Commission is saying nothing while the street car and bus lines are preparing to wage a fight for increased adult fares because of anticipated losses resulting from the operation of the 3-cent fare for school children.

While no action is expected to block the reduced fare before it becomes effective, viz., next Tuesday, some steps in that direction may be taken by the transportation lines if the commission fails to grant them any other compensation.

An executive meeting of Washington Railway & Electric Co. officials was held yesterday afternoon regarding the matter, and a letter was dispatched to the utilities body. William F. Ham, president, however, declined to reveal the contents of the message until it is received this morning by the commission.

John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., stated that his organization will not oppose the children's rates, but he said efforts will be made to offset the expected losses promptly. He said he was not prepared to say, though, just what steps would be taken.

Both street car lines and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. wrote to the commission Tuesday and stated that they expected the utilities body to make some adjustment in rate schedules that would make amends for their losses. The commission ignored this inference in answering inquiry in the letters regarding the school fares.

If any adjustments in adult fares are made, it is thought that they will be in the charge for tokens rather than in the cash fare. But, meanwhile, the members of the utilities commission are keeping shy of the issue until it is formally presented to them.

Western Firm Bids Low on Dam

Wilbur Recommends Figure of Six Companies, Inc., Be Accepted.

Denver, March 4 (A.P.).—A combination of Western construction firms—the Six Companies, Inc., of San Francisco—submitted the low bid today for the general contract on the Hoover dam and power plant and won a recommendation that their figure of $48,890,995.50 be accepted by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

Work on the Colorado River project, the biggest engineering job ever attempted in the United States, is expected to be under way within 30 days. The entire project will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $165,000,000.

A few hours after the Six Companies, Inc., had submitted the law bid to Government engineers in Denver, it had been recommended to Secretary Wilbur for acceptance by Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation.

103 Workers Added To Postoffice Staff

Better postal service, earlier deliveries and more mail collections for the District were promised yesterday by Postmaster William M. Mooney with the addition of 103 persons to the city postoffice personnel.

Fifty-six additional clerks have been added, as well as 44 extra carriers and 3 laborers. The clerks and carriers will receive $1,700 annual salary and the laborers $1,500.

Arthur Newton Pack To Talk on Adventure

Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature Association, will deliver the third and final lecture in a series of elementary science events at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at Western High School, Thirty-fifth and R streets northwest. His subject will be "Horn, Thorn, Tooth and Claw," a topic of adventure in the Southwest.

The event is sponsored by the Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Community Institute, in cooperation with the Elementary Science Corps of the District public schools.

A. L. Smith Low Bidder On H. M. Brown School

Arthur L. Smith, of Washington, submitted the lowest of eight bids on the construction of the Hugh M. Brown Junior High School at Twenty-fourth and H streets northeast, Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District Engineering Department, announced after the bids were opened yesterday afternoon.

The low estimate was $430,373, the highest $446,448. The school is to be a part of a large colored park development. It will be near the Young Platoon School, which is now under construction.

Debate Teams to Hold Contest Over Radio

Three debating teams of George Washington University will oppose groups from rival institutions tomorrow, beginning with a radio debate by a men's team against the University of Oklahoma, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, over station WOL. The local team will argue in favor of prohibition repeal.

A woman's team will meet Boston University at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, at the institution here on the subject that compulsory unemployment insurance should be voted. Another woman's team will meet New York University in New York City in a debate on the same subject.

Eighth Street Projects Delayed to Next Year

Eighth street improvement projects that have been authorized for this year have been postponed until next year, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the District Highway Department, announced yesterday.

The reason for the postponement, he said, lies in the tardiness of underground work, such as the laying of sewer and water mains. Were the street improved this season, they would shortly have to be torn up.

CARNERA-MALONEY BOUT TONIGHT SEEN AS 'FLOP'

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 4.—As to the integrity of the prize fight between Billy Petrolle and King Tut in the Garden, some have one opinion and some have another, but what I would like to know is, whatever it was, what of it? The patrons saw a lively and unusual spectacle, and if it should be that they also saw a fake, then that was something extra for the regular price of admission.

The public is becoming entirely too fastidious, forgetting that prizefighting is by nature and tradition the hoodlums' own social outlet and that it takes a conscious effort to wear a plug hat. Whenever the boys relax the hat rolls off, and by this time the elegant topper with which Tex Rickard once endeavored to dignify the racket is so badly stove in and scuffed up that it seems that the more honest way to do would be to fill it with sawdust and set it by the bar-rail in some popular rendezvous of the fraternity.

I suppose I should denounce dishonesty and, for the sake of the record, I hereby do, but with a cert in reservation in regard to prize fighting. Football and polo should be clean and chivalrous, but, in my understanding, prize fighting suggests roguery, and when a couple of the lads perform a phony of one kind or another I feel that they are living up to the traditions of their craft.

TRADITIONS OF CRAFT UPHELD

The customers who protest at the betrayal of their confidence by the athletes in a fake probably are deceiving themselves, for it seems likely that they derive more pleasure, of another and more satisfying sort, from detecting and denouncing a phony than they would derive from witnessing an undistinguished, honest, routine contest. It gives the customer a sense that he is a very shrewd, smart fellow, and this is good for his self-esteem.

It will be interesting now to watch the action of the New York prize fight commissioners with regard to the boys who brought suspicion upon themselves in the Garden ring on Friday evening. My prediction, based on the fact that no fighter's money ever has been permanently withheld in New York, is that in due time the commissioners will decide to pay both Petrolle and King Tut their checks.

The embarrassing fact is that in a case of the present kind, the prize fighter himself is the sole judge of his own ability to continue fighting. He may seem to be quite undamaged, but if he has reasons for succumbing to a bashful slap on the shoulder, claiming that everything went blank, as the lady defendants in love nest murders are so fond of pleading, that is his privilege. It appeared that King Tut's mental processes were a trifle sluggish and that he had a hard time deciding which of the punches that Petrolle dealt him was sufficiently hard to knock him down. By the time he had reached a conclusion that the left hook to the ribs was a knock-down punch he had taken two more jabs and a cross to the shoulder, and it would have clarified matters if he had asked to have the microphone brought to him as he reclined upon the floor so that he could say, "I wish to explain that I was knocked down four punches ago."

TUT DECIDES FIGHT IS OVER

The suspicion of appendicitis is not certain to reassure the patrons, because Tut's condition became acute only when the prize fight commissioners decided to investigate an acquiescence which struck them as somewhat too eager. This is tested strategy. Old Bill Brennan conducted the original experiment with fine success several years ago. During the time that Luis Angel Firpo was blazing the trail for Primo Carnera, Mr. Brennan was offered to him in the ring at the old Garden, and after a conventional period of resistance he went down and technically out. Some of the customers and critics did not think Bill was very eager to get up and carry on, but, as I say, Bill was the best and final judge as to that.

When, upon the following day, however, one of the newspapers denounced Bill's conduct as connivance, his manager, the late Leo P. Flynn, pushed him into a cab and took him to a hospital with instructions to develop concussion of the brain. Bill lingered there for a suitable period and recovered, but the unfeeling attitude of the newspapers so offended him that he instituted a suit for libel, stating, "you know how hard he must have hit me to knock Tigers Try New Ball to Learn Qualities for Bunting.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4 (U.P.).—Cold weather and high winds hampered the Yankees in their workout today. Joe McCarthy paid particular attention to Meryl Hoag, the $75,000 outfielder from Sacramento.

After working the 21-year-old speedster in the picket line, McCarthy used him at third base. Hoag played at short in the minors.

McCarthy and the veterans of the club joined in praising the young players in this camp. Four outfielders, Hoag, Dusty Cooke, Sam Byrd, and Fred Walker, as well as Bill Werber, shortstop, came in for special praise.

Charley Ruffing, who recently suffered a severe attack of influenza, made his first apepearance on the mound, pitching to batters.

Harrismen Seek New Ball Knowledge.

Sacramento, Calif., March 4 (A.P.). Bucky Harris is preparing his Detroit Tigers to take advantage of the revised ball by stressing bunting.

"Going back to the bunting game on account of the new ball?" Harris was asked.

"The new ball has to be tested," said the Detroit manager, "but we'll be ready if it is as slow as they claim it is."

Bespectacled Hurler Uses "Armor."

Pensacola, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—Danny MacFayden, the Boston Red Sox's bespectacled pitching ace, is taking no chances htis training trip. Noting the number of balls that have bounced off pitchers' anatomies during recent batting practices, he strapped on a pair of catcher's shin guards today. He also wore a pair of nonbreakable spectacles and had two extra pairs cached nearby, just in case of accident.

Walberg, Grove Cut Loose.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—The athletics got in some heavy practice licks today. Rube Walberg unleached his first curves of the season, and that was a signal for hte recruit hurlers ot cut loose and do their stuff. Grove also opened up with his fireball.

Comiskey Gets Good, Bad News at Camp.

San Antonio, Tex., March 4 (A.P.).—Charles A. Comiskey, aged owner of the Chicago White Sox, reached camp otday to see what he is going to have as an American League entrant.

The old Roman arrived in time to learn Pitcher Hal McKain's arm has gone bad again and that Irving Jeffries, infileder, was suffreing from a severe spike wound sustained in a collision with Johnny Watwood. He also learned that Manager Donie Bush is elated at the progress of the recruit pitchers, notably Bob Weiland, southpaw, and Victor Frasier, Pat Caraway and Jim Moore.

Hitting Stressed By Browns' Pilot.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—Manager Bill Killifer seemingly is more anxious to develop some real hitting on the Browns than he is about any other department of the game. He keeps the club swingers in the batting cages for long periods each day.

Throughout the entire morning Killifer had his infielders and outfileders slashing away at the offerings of all the pitchers in camp.

Phils' Big Rookie 13 Years in Minors.

Winterhaven, Fla., March 4 (A.P.). The spotlight blazed on Buzz Arlett, mighty oak from Oakland, Calif., as he went through his first workout today with the Phillies. The new outfielder is 6 feet 3 and scales 225. "What a break to get in the majors at last," he said.

"There were reports I didn't care about coming up, that I was satisfied to stay in Oakland, but that was wrong. I gave my best for thirteen years and they held me back. At the end of last season I said I was through, so they sold me."

P. Waner, Recovering, Due in Camp Soon.

Nats' Mound Staff Called Best

THE best pitching staff in the league and added hitting power will make a pennant winner out of the Washington Team this season, is the belief of F. Charles Farrall, of La Plata, Md., one of yesterday's contributors to The Post's baseball contest.

Mr. Farrall picks Washington to win the flag without reservation in his letter to the "Baseball Editor" in the attempt to win the six box seats to the inaugural game which The Post is offering to the fan who best sets forth in an article of not more than 250 words his or her views of the Washington Club, its 1931 prospects and its probable make-up.

RICE ADDS BATTING POWER

The development of only one young pitcher is looked for by Farrall, but he does not name that individual. He is satisfied with either Buddy Myer or Jack Hayes at second base and declares that the same team that finished second to the Athletics last year is capable of winning in 1931, especially through the reserve hitting strength in the person of Harry Rice.

Every fan in Washington and vicinity is invited to state his opinion of the Washington Team in The Post's contest. Address your letters to the "Baseball Editor" before the closing date of the contest, April 1. Your reasons for your beliefs play an important part in the consideration of the awards. Remember to write on only one side of the paper.

BIG TEN IRED BY CAMPUS PROBERS

Resents North Central Body's Attempt to Investigate.

CHICAGO, March 4 (A.P.).—The Western Conference today declared war on the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, seeking to reaffirm the right of the Big Ten to solve its own athletic problems.

A meeting of presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors of member institutions, has been called for some time within the next two weeks, to clarify the relationship between the Big Ten and the North Central group.

The North Central Association, an academic organization which includes in its membership almost every college and secondary school between the Alleghanies and the Rocky Mountains, was formed primarily to standardize scholastic requirements. Recently, however, it has moved to assume control of problems heretofore handled by the various athletic conferences.

Resent Visit of Investigators.

The Big Ten's decision to challenge was reached when Northwestern officials resented the sending of a group of North Central Association investigators to its campus.

These investigators are expected to make their report within a few days, and indications are that the Big Ten meeting will be called shortly after the North Central findings are given out.

When a member of the North Central Association fails to meet the requirements of the group, it has the power of suspension, making it mandatory upon the other members to refuse to recognize credits of students seeking transfer from the suspended institution. Among those recently removed from the accredited list are West Virginia University, charged with subsidizing athletes; Butler University, of Indianapolis, because its endowment was cut below the required standard as the result of the erection of a stadium and fieldhouse, and Iowa Wesleyan, because of "unexpected debts" of $170,000 found in an audit of its accounts.

French Can Stay Out, Says Bucs' President

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 4 (A.P.).—Barney Dreyfus, president of the Pittsburgh National League Club, in a terse summary of the holdout situation of Pitcher Larry French, said today that the hurler is demanding an increase of 115 per cent over his 1930 satlary, and "he is not going to get it."

"I do not consider him as valuable as some other pitchers on the roster," Dreyfuss said, "and if he does not care to work for us for what he is worth he can stay out."

Clark, Outsider, Wins Central Florida Open

Orlando, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—Clarence Clark, Bloomfield (N. J.) professional, broke the course record here today and garnered first money in the 36-hole central Florida open golf championship with a card of 67—76—143.

It was the first time the Bloomfield matn has forged into the front of the picture. His 67 for the first round was four strokes under par and two under the course record for the Orlando Country Club. He got his 67 despite a chilling, high wind.

Walter Hagen, unattached, and John O'Conner, Fort George, N. Y., weer five strokes behind Clark, at 148, in a tie for second andthird money.

WEISSMULLER WEDS.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 4 (A.P.). The secret marriage last Saturday of Bobby Arnst, Broadway stage star, and Johnny Weissmuller, holder of many swimming records, was announced by them here today.

Special Drill Ordered for Bolton

Nats' Rookie Catcher Placed in Care of Gharrity.

Batting Begins to Assume Importance in Routine.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 4.—Serious efforts to develop Cliff Bolton into a catcher started this morning when Coach Patsy Gharrity took the youngster in hand and worked with him practically throughout the entire session. Bolton is the lad who led every league in which he played his first three seasons. He hit the .407 mark once, and finished second among the regulars in the Southern Association last season, his average being a healthy .377.

Bolton is reputed to be just about as natural a hitter as there is. He is not a home-run clouter, but is noted for his clean drives just over the infield. If he shows that he can hit big league pitching, he, no doubt, will be kept despite his poor fielding. But, in the meantime, the job of improving him defensively, especially in catching foul flies, has been put up to the veteran Gharrity, who knows all of the tricks of the trade.

Four Pitchers Work In Batting Drill.

This morning's session found a batting drill on the program, with Griffith, Tauscher, Smith, Grayson, Coach Schacht and Manager Johnson all taking a turn on the hill. Only when it came his turn on the tee was Bolton given a respite from his catching lessons. Although the moundsmen had little on the ball, their arms not yet being strong enough to burn them over and curves being tabooed, neither Bolton nor any one else did any hitting to speak of.

Not having seen any pitching since last season, all were more or less timid at the plate, but some good was accomplished in that the batters at least began to get their eyes adjusted. The best blows of the day were credited to the two Sams—Rice and West while Fred Marberry came through with a drive to deep left center which caused him to do considerable strutting.

Batting to Be Feature Henceforth.

Batting will be given a prominent position in all future drills, Manager Johnson stated tonight, which means that the primary class for pitchers has ended and that they will be allowed gradually to extend themselves. Meanwhile, the batters will improve, too, and the flingers should be just about ready to give the hitters some real workouts by the time the regulars arrive next week.

Although the next squad is not due to report here until Sunday night, players are already making their appearance. Catcher Bill (Pinky) Hargrave, who has been training at Hot Springs, arrived this morning, while word was received from Capt. Joe Judge that he would be here Friday. Hargrave appears to have lost considerable weight.

The weather was ideal here today, the thermometer registering around 60, and the boys staged one of the most strenuous drills of the young season, with even more work scheduled for tomorrow.

Paul Hise, a Biloxi "Bearcat" pitcher, has been so highly recommended to President Clark Griffith that he has been asked to show up for a trial tomorrow. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs around 200 pounds, and is an underhanded pitcher with a reputation for being quite a hitter, too.

There is much excitement in camp over a golf match to be staged tomorrow between Sam Rice and Bobby Burke. Sam is to use only a mid-iron, while Bob can use his full set. A number of oral bets have been laid, with the two principals wagering some real money on the result.

Pitcher Ad Liska worked under wraps this morning due to some unwise eating which left him slightly indisposed.

Loughran's Suspension Lifted by Pa. Solons

Philadelphia, March 4 (A.P.).—The suspension of Tommy Loughran for conduct detrimental to the sport for protesting a decision was lifted today by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. This will permit Loughran to meet Ernie Schaaf in New York March 13.

Gus Sonnenberg, former wrestling champion, under suspension since July, 1929, because he would not defend his title, was also reinstated as Sonnenberg has since lost the championship.

Miss Hicks Is Defeated By Wisconsin Champ

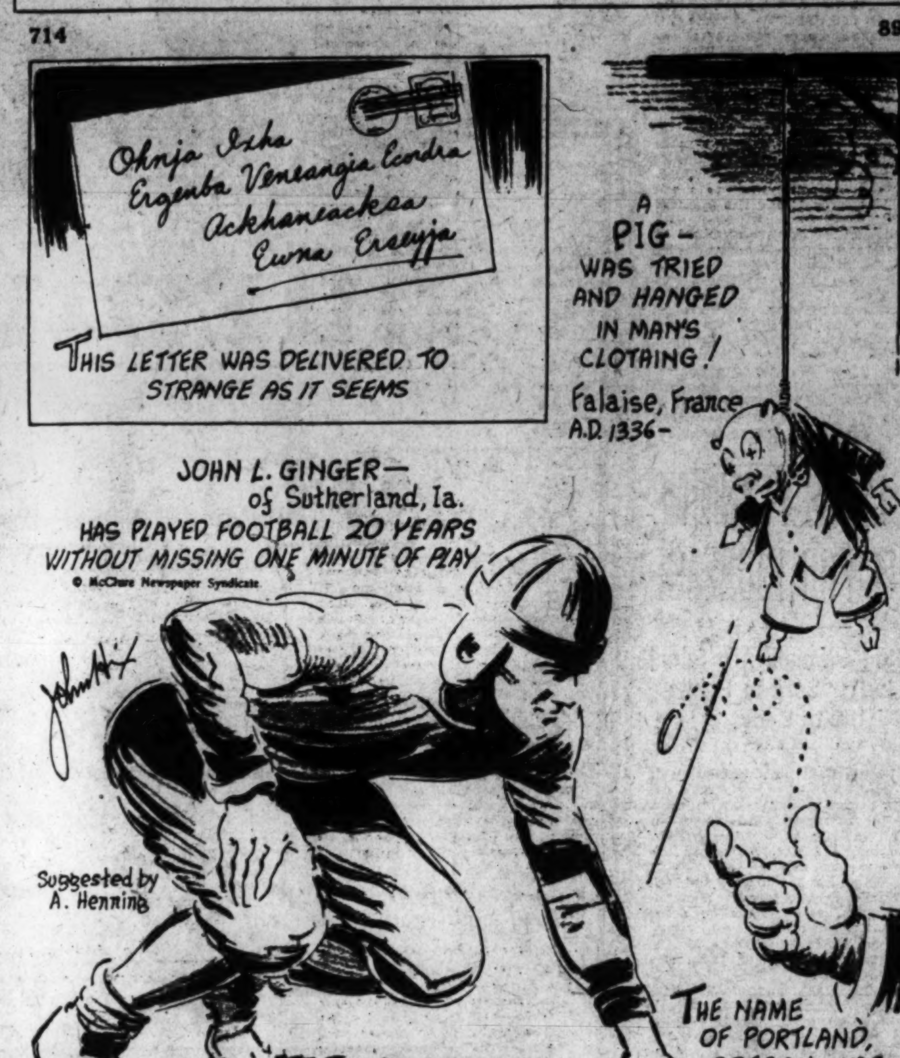

St. Augustine, Fla., March 4 (A.P.). In the most spectacular upset of the current golfing season in Florida, Frances Hadfield, Wisconsin state champion, today eliminated Helen Hicks, Hewlett, Long Island, 1 up in the first round of the Florida East Coast championship. Miss Hicks, medalist, yesterday carried the Wisconsin girl to the twentieth hole, however, and lost there when she missed two chip shots and needed a 6 where Miss Hadfield obtained a par 4.

Only two of the five British stars came through the first round. They were Diana Fishwick, who beat Ruth A. Wilson, Chicago, 8 and 7, and Kathleen Garnham, who defeated Mariam Bennett, New Britain, Conn., 2 up.

BAN JOHNSON WEAKER.

St. Louis, Mo., March 4 (A.P.).—The condition of Ban Johnson, former baseball leader, was described tonight as "unchanged." He has been growing slowly weaker, however, and his chances for recovery are slight, his physician, Dr. Robert Hyland, said.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

TWENTY years of football is a record in itself, but to play a score of years through a total of 160 games without missing a minute of play is an accomplishment that is probably unrivaled. Ginger has never been taken from a game because of injuries and only once has time been called on him.

The pig that was tried and hanged was found guilty of lacerating and killing a child. The sentence demanded that the animal be mutilated in its hind legs and head and then hanged in man's clothing.

Gate May Not Total Over $50,000

Advance Sale Hit by Chill; Big Italian Rules Favortie.

Demand for "Annie Oakleys" Big; Gallagher on Card.

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor).

MIAMI, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—Chilly weather, a lawsuit for damages and a substantial rush for "Annie Oakley's" at fistic headquarters today were the only noteworthy developments leading up to the 10-round heavyweight match between Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney, scheduled tomorrow night.

Much after the manner of mourners, hoping for the best but anticipating the worst, the boys accustomed to appear at all big heavyweight affairs, no matter where the location, began trooping in today to make themselves comfortable "on the house." Partly as a consequence, the market for "Annies" or for complementary tickets was much heavier than the activity on the part of cash customers.

Although weather prospects for tomorrow evening were good, the unseasonable chill today that sent the mercury down to 48 and threatened a frost in the Everglades tonight, was not calculated to stimulate the advance sale.

Promoter Frank J. Bruen declined to make any further estimates as to what the show would draw or whether there was a chance to save it from going heavily "in the red." The unofficial guess was that the "gate" would be lucky to pass $50,000, on which basis the loss might be considerable.

Carnera, as a result of somewhat rigorous training within the past few days after a layoff due to his cracked rib, is expected to scale around 265 pounds. Despite his questionable condition and ability to go the route, the big Italian continued a favorite. Maloney will weight about 200 and the Boston Irishman's followers are confident he will repeat his former victory on points over Primo.

Wagering on the outcome of the fight, however, has been conspicuous by its absence. The day's law suit, filed in cirucit court here, involves a $6,000 claim for damages against Carnera and his principal managers, Leon See and Bill Duffy. It was filed by George A. Biener, Fort Wayne, Ind., promoter, who alleges the damages resulted from Carnera's failure to appear last June 9 in Fort Wayne for a fistic engagement. Promoter Bruen was named as garnishee.

The preliminary card tomorrow night features an 8-rounder between Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, and Marty Gallagher, of Washington, D. C. Six-round heavyweight bolts include Jimmy Braddock, Jersey City, vs. Jack Roper, California; Salah El Din, Egyptian "prince," vs. Jack Dorvel, Emporiam, Pa.; Ralph Ficucello, Brooklyn, N. Y., vs. Walter Cobb, Kansas City, Mo.

Promoter Bruen announced there will be no broadcast from the ringside. The main bout is scheduled about 10 p. m., Eastern time.

Dog and Horse Racing At Asheville Favored

Raleigh, N. C., March 4 (A.P.).—A plan to make Asheville a horse and dog racing center is included in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Reed, of Buncombe, to legalize parimutuel machines in Buncombe County.

The measure would establish a racing commission composed of Thomas W. Raoul, chairman; R. L. Ellis and Francis G. Bourne to have power to grant franchises or privileges to conduct racing in Buncombe.

In connection with the races, which could be dog or horse or both, parimutuel machines or appliances such as are used at recognized race tracks in the United States would be allowed to be operated for the purpose of betting on the races.

No races would be allowed on Sundays and no minors would be allowed on the race course unless accompanied by parents.

MARINES GAIN REVENGE.

MARYLAND FULFILLS COACH'S LONG DEFERRED HOPE

Title Dreams Of Shipley Realized

Victorious Old Line Five Composed Entirely of Juniors.

Coach Was Star Athlete at Md.; Shone in Minor League.

(Associated Press.)

BURTON SHIPLEY'S seven year dream of turning out a real basket ball championship team was realized when his University of Maryland five defeated Kentucky at Atlanta to win the Southern Conference title.

In those seven years, Shipley has been basket ball coach at his alma mater at College Park, and has seen his teams beaten out year after year for State conference honors. This year, with the quintet composed of veterans, Maryland came through.

The Old Liners were beaten, however, for the State championship this season by Loyola College, of Baltimore, 33-30, and lost also to another Maryland team, Washington College, 33 to 32.

The victorious conference team was composed entirely of junior classmen, so Shipley is hopeful of at least one more banner season.

Shipley Was Grid Star at Maryland.

Back in 1911-12, Shipley played star football at College Park. After graduation he managed and played minor league baseball, and handled the pennant winning Martinsburg, Va., team in the Blue Ridge League.

Then he went to the University of Delaware to take over the position of basket ball coach. He distinguished himself there, first attracting notice when he took his team to Annapolis and defeated the Navy quintet.

It was not until the fall of 1922 that he returned to his alma mater to take a hand in the activities there. He was appointed head basket ball and baseball coach and made assistant in football to Head Coach H. C. "Curly" Byrd, athletic director.

Team Won 92, Lost 44, Including This Year.

During his term as basket ball coach, Maryland has won a total of 92 games and lost 44, and this year the quintet won 18 out of 22 contests, including the games played in the Southern Conference.

Plans are under way at the college for a rousing welcome to the conquerors when they reach Washington this morning at 7:05 o'clock. And while Bozie Berger, Shorty Chalmers, Charlie May, Jack Norris, Ed Ronkin and that indomitable lone substitute, with the strapped-up shoulder, Bob Wilson, will come in for a large part of the ovation, much of it will be for Coach Shipley.

Maryland U. Students Welcome Court Heroes

The early birds at Union Station this morning were slated to witness a phase of college whoopee when Maryland University's Southern Conference basket ball champions detrained on their return from Atlanta. Though the hour was 7:05, several hundred Old Line students, including a 50-piece band, were slated to form the welcoming delegation for Coach Burton Shipley's team.

Following the station ceremony, the players and rooters were to continue to College Park, where a special assembly in honor of the team was to be held at 8:20 o'clock. To do this, the university authorities cancelled classroom work.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Idle Hour Handicap, at a mile, feature of the Hialeah bill this afternoon, engages eight of the pick of the handicap division at Miami, chief of which is the one-eyed Dixie winner, SANDY FORD, owned by Myrtle Shea and trained by Willie Shea, who picked up a small fortune in a claiming race. Sandy Ford won his last start in Hialeah and should win this before starting on his long journey for the West Coast, where he will measure speed with the champion Sun Beau for the $100,000 added Agua Caliente Handicap.

RACCOON seems to be the contender. MURKY CLOUD, from the C. V. Whitney stable, should give Raccoon a battle for the place money. Probabilities are for a fast track.

HAZEL GUMBERTS looks best in the first race, at 6 furlongs. She is a consistent mare and has beaten better horses than she will meet today. JOAN K. probably will be the contender in this dash. Sun Meddler should improve and has been tabbed for the show money.

ZONDA is selected to win the second race for 2-year-old fillies over the nursery straight-away. FASHION SHOW, winner of her last start, is rated the contender, with PORTER'S DREAM probably best of the others. CORSICAN, showing recent improvement and finishing second to Sun Worship Monday, looks best in the third race, a claiming affair for platers five years old and up. The unlucky MINERALOGIST is rated the contender in his poor form. SANDY HATCH should bring up in third position.

RAMUS should win the fourth race. He likes a route better and should have little difficulty in this contest at a mile and 70 yards. PUNISHMENT is the contender. BLACK DIAMOND earned brackets in his last race, beating Cuddle easily and he should hold the others safe.

POLITEN came close in his last start, beaten a nose by Caterer, but there should be little doubt about him scoring in the sixth race at a mile and 70 yards. POURBOIRE is regarded next best of this field. FOURTH WARD has a chance, and should be third at any rate.

SANCTION is selected to win the seventh race at a mile and a furlong. At this distance over a heavy track he was second to Brush, a mudder, in which Plumbago was unplaced. FRANCIS SEYMOUR looks like the contender. TOMMY usually is close around among this kind and should be as good as third.

TOURNAMENT WILL OFFER BARGAINS

Nominal Charge of 25 Cents for Post Tourney Cards.

THE same nominal fee of 25 cents will be charged by the District A. A. U. for admission to each night's program in The Washington Post's fifth annual championship basket ball tournament which starts Monday night at the Tech High gymnasium. With at least four games on each night's schedule, Capital basket ball fans will be offered bargains in thrills which would be mighty hard to duplicate.

Tournament play offers no chance for stalling. One defeat eliminates a team and there is not a club entered that will not be in there fighting to the last tick of the timer's watch. Those familiar with the basket ball situation, have scanned the drawings in vain for a one-sided contest in the opening rounds. In a number of cases, socalled first flight fives, are due for elimination in battles among themselves.

With the lone exception of the Saks Clothiers in the 145-pound class, there is no outstanding favorite in the record entry list. Saks, with Bernie Jones, Bobby Lucas and other stars, has an enviable record for the season, being undefeated until stopped by the unlimited Boys Club team in the District League. However, many other supposedly superior clubs have bowed to Old Man Jinx in the four past tournaments sponsored by The Post.

In the unlimited class, the teams seem more closely bunched than ever. True there are clubs which appear to have the edge on the others but the frenzied action of the tournament often lowers the efficiency of a superior team and again spurs an inferior club to new heights.

Among the quintets that many fans are trying to install as favorites are the Griffith Consumers, Central High, Jewish Community Center, Potomac Boat Club Scholastics, composed of Eastern High players; United Typos, with Forrest Burgess in their line-up; Boys Club, Clovers and Quantico Marines.

In the other classes, including the two girls' divisions, there appear to be no outstanding favorites, although each group includes several teams which, on paper, seem to have an edge.

Players in the 100 and 115 pound classes were weighed last night at the Boys Club. In a majority of cases the youngsters passed the test. Some made the grade only in birthday suits while others confidently mounted the scales without removing their overcoats. In some few instances, boys were given until Friday night to get off a pound or two.

Tonight players in the 130 and 145 pound classes will face the weight test at the club, Third and C streets northwest. A. A. U. officials will be ready to weigh the players between 7 and 9:30 o'clock.

RIDING FAME GIVEN UP BY BOSTWICK

Returns to U. S. Despite Chance to Ride at Aintree.

NEW YORK, March 4 (U.P.).—George H. ("Pete") Bostwick, currently the world's best known "gentleman jockey," returned to his home in New York today, and thus passed up a chance to win international fame by riding in England's Grand National steeplechase.

While the assignment had not been announced officially, it had been generally understood Bostwick would have a leg up on Victor Emmanuel's Bangle II in the classic race to be held at Aintree, England, March 27.

Bostwick, however, elected to return to his homeland, without definite plans for the season here. He said he intended to leave for Aiken immediately, for a bit of polo. It was believed likely he would ride in the Aiken Gold Cup race to be run on March 27, since he could have choice of two or three worthy starters. Bostwick also said he intended to do some riding at Belmont.

Bostwick won enthusiastic applause for his brilliant riding in England this year. He took two of his horses, Sir Crispen and Burglar, to England and rode them to seven consecutive victories. He also rode other mounts to victory during the present steeplechase season on the other side.

S. I. C. Mat Tournament Off; Too Few Entrants

Lexington, Va., March 4 (A.P.).—Abandonment of the second annual Southern Conference wrestling tournament, scheduled for this week-end at Virginia Military Institute, was announced tonight by Maj. Blandy B. Clarkson, tournament manager.

Lack of a representative number of entries caused the tournament committee to cancel the meeting, Maj. Clarkson stated.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute yesterday withdrew its team reducing its entries to three, North Carolina, Washington and Lee and V. M. I. Duke, Florida and North Carolina State, other conference institutions supporting intercollegiate wrestling, failed to enter teams.

Brother of Cochrane Banned by Conference

Durham, N. C., March 4 (U.P.).—Archie Cochrane, sophomore brother of Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia Athletics' catcher, has been ruled ineligible by the Southern Conference executive committee, according to Duke University athletic officials.

Cochrane's status has been questioned since the Raleigh News and Observer in June, 1929, revealed he signed a contract and played two days for the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League.

The student declared he had not known his playing with Martinsburg would affect his eligibility.

8 Clubs Now Signed In Piedmont League

Greensboro, N. C., March 4 (U.P.).—The Piedmont League resumed an eight-club status today with admittance of the Charlotte and Asheville clubs, late of the disbanded South Atlantic circuit.

The tobacco loop in meeting today welcomed the North Carolina clubs to the league and Henderson, Raleigh and Durham, at the other end of the circuit, discussed plans for an agreement toward splitting extra travel costs necessitated by the expansion.

President W. G. Bramham presided at the meeting.

NET STOCK LOSSES RANGE TO 5 POINTS

Reduction and Omission of Dividends Leaves Market Heavy.

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—Effects of the depression on corporate earnings were called forcefully to the stock market's attention today in a series of dividend reductions and omissions, and prices were on the way down during most of the session.

Utilities, which theoretically have most to fear from legislation, celebrated the adjournment of Congress with an afternoon rally that failed to hold. Rails were susceptible to bearish pressure impelled by the poor earnings statements, unsatisfactory loading figures and dividend cuts by Rock Island and Lehigh Valley. Steels might have derived some cheer from the weekly trade reviews, which reported a small improvement in operations, but instead they acted tired. With the exception of the brief flurry in shares of electric power companies the market as a whole was heavy and net losses ranged from 1 to 5 points. Sales totaled 3,000,000 shares.

Extreme declines in the active rails ran as high as 7 points, although the break was partially repaired. Atchison at its lowest was 6¾ off, reducing the loss to 5½. New York Central tumbled 4, and Erie, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Rock Island, Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central and Union Pacific 1 to 2½. Frisco common lost several points in anticipation of unfavorable dividend action by the directors who, however, again postponed action. The preferred at one time was off 7 points. Atlantic Coast Line dropped 15.

Few Utilities Rise.

A few utilities, notably American Power & Light, Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas & Electric and United Corporation, finished higher, but American Telephone was heavy. American Can, American Rolling Mill, American Smelting, Johns-Manville, Radio, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Electric, Bethlehem, Byers and Westinghouse finished 1 to 2¾ lower. Allied Chemical, Auburn, Gulf States Steel, Remington Rand and International Business Machines dipped 4 to nearly 6.

Banking and business circles were pleased by the Indian truce, pointing out that lifting of the boycott should help British trade, especially cotton goods, and therefore American cotton exports. Silver might also be expected to benefit from a return of more prosperous times in India. The metal rose ⅝ of a cent in New York and was also higher in London.

Although pig iron production last month rose 10 per cent over January, the total output was nevertheless the lowest for a February since 1922. Figures on steel ingots are not due until next week, although a similarly favorable report is anticipated. Trade circles are looking for a maintenance of the slow but steady expansion during this month, with automotive, rail, pipe and structural orders improving moderately. Buying thus far is still of the short term variety and the price situation for the second quarter is regarded as indefinite.

Bradstreet's Commodity Index.

Bradstreet's commodity index showed the seventeenth consecutive monthly decline during February, although the loss was only 1.5 per cent. Seven of the thirteen groups used in the average were off and six had an upward trend. The drop from March 1 last year is 17.3 per cent.

Wheat was steady, closing slightly mixed, but mostly higher. Farm Board buying, a bullish feeding estimate and a rally in Winnipeg were influential factors. Corn rallied as much as a cent, reflecting a better cash demand and an unfavorable weather forecast. Prospects of a better demand in England for shipment to China and India firmed cotton, which closed with gains of 10 to 12 points.

Foreign exchanges were generally steady. Shanghai rallied with silver.

The market is always puzzling, particularly when an individual stock is considered. Some recover more rapidly from depressed conditions than others. The same is true of industries.

Skilled investors such as insurance companies spread their investment. Why should any individual attempt to pick the one best stock? The soundest plan is one of placing available funds in a cross-section of companies representing the best of American enterprises.

This may be done in twenty-eight of our most important corporations through a single investment in—

UTILITY BONDS RISE WITH GOVERNMENTS

Treasury's Financing Plans Prove Strong Tonic for Tired Market.

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—The response to the Treasury's $1,400,000,000 financing program, together with other encouraging developments proved a strong tonic for the bond market today.

Bonds, particularly United States Governments, utilities and German and Italian obligations attracted a large inquiry and advanced as the volume of business expanded to the largest total since January 29. Railroads and industrials were tinged with irregularity, being called upon to absorb considerable liquidation due to the heavy tone of shares. Nevertheless, advances elsewhere more than offset the declines.

Closing of the Treasury books yesterday on its March 16 financing program involving the sale of $1,400,000,000 in securities was interpreted as indicating a large oversubscription. In addition, the City of New York disposed of a $100,000,000 4¼ per cent bond issue to the Kuhn Loeb-Dillon Read Syndicate at the most favorable price received in three years. The successful bid of 101.977 reduces the interest cost to the city to 4.124 per cent.

Long term Treasury issues were buoyant and the Treasury 3⅜s bonds to be marketed March 16 were traded in the over-the-counter market at a premium of as high as ⅜ of 1 per cent. Treasury 4¼s closed 15-32ds higher and Treasury 4s and Treasury 3¾s advanced ¼ of a point each, in a large turnover.

Utility bonds moved slowly upward as the demand broadened and a half dozen or so duplicated their year's highs. The strength of a diversified list of German bonds and Italian issues stood out in the foreign section.

Italian 7s touched par, a new high for the year, in a large turnover. Rome City 6½s advanced 1½ to 90, and Milan City 6½s gained 1, both closing at new 1931 maximums. German bank issues moved forward to new peaks, the 7s leading the advance with a 2¼ point rise.

$1,000,000 LISTED AS BANK'S ASSETS

Brightwood Institution Is One of Thriving Smaller Houses of District.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Bank of Brightwood, one of the thriving smaller financial institutions of the city, reached the million-dollar mark in assets yesterday. This bank was organized at the instigation of the Brightwood Citizens Association in 1922 with $122,000 in assets.

Raymond L. Schreiner, who had been assistant cashier of the Union Savings Bank, which consolidated with the Continental Trust Co. in April, 1922, left the latter company, where he was an assistant cashier, a month later, and in November, 1922, opened the Bank of Brightwood in the capacity of cashier.

The bank started in business in a one-story store building opposite its present handsome two-story limestone building, completed in 1925, at 5913 Georgia avenue northwest. Deposits of the opening day were more than $23,000. Yesterday they exceeded $864,000. In 1926 Mr. Schreiner was elected president of the bank and at that time was believed to be the youngest bank president in the United States. He still retains the office of cashier.

Served as Senate Page.

Mr. Schreiner was born in this city in 1898 and was educated in the public schools. After serving as a page in the Senate and being engaged in the newspaper business, he entered banking as a messenger for the Union Savings Bank, being promoted to take charge of its bookkeeping department in 1917. On the United States' entry in the World War he enlisted in the Army, serving overseas with the 104th Signal Battalion.

Fraternally, he is identified with Brightwood Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, of which he is a past master; the Chapter, the Council and Commandery. He is also a member of the Shrine, a past patron of the Eastern Star and holds memberships in Lodge No. 30, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Manor Club, American and District of Columbia Bankers Associations.

Other officers and directors of the Bank of Brightwood are C. L. Osborn and Barton W. Perry, vice presidents; C. J. Sincell, assistant cashier; Charles H. Gaskins, C. J. Sincell, H. Mason Welch, E. H. Ankeny, E. L. Bullard, John F. Ertter, George W. Langley, Samuel Moore, Joseph Nicholson, C. L. Osborn, Barton W. Perry, D. F. Swab, I. C. Towson and John Wischausen, directors.

Elected Vice President.

A. Scott Offutt, an assistant cashier of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, was elected a vice president and director of that institution at a meeting of the board yesterday. After being associated with the Continental Trust Co. and National Capital Bank, Mr. Offutt came to the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank in 1921 as a paying and receiving teller, being stationed at its then main office, at Eighth and G street southeast.

He was promoted to an assistant cashiership shortly afterward; and when his bank absorbed the Peoples Commercial & Savings Bank, in 1924, he was transferred as manager to the latter institution, which became the East Capitol Street Branch of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank. In 1929 he became manager of the Georgia avenue branch of the bank and in 1930 was appointed manager of the Eighth and G streets southeast branch, the main office of the bank now being 3401 Connecticut avenue. Mr. Offutt will remain in charge of the southeast branch.

Bernard M. Grant, who has been a paying and receiving teller, was elected an assistant cashier and will also be associated with the southeast branch. He has been connected with the bank four years.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 4 (A.P.).—Enlarged demand for corn and scarcity of offerings lifted grain prices today after early declines. Reports said Western corn marketings would soon sharply diminish, the present movement being at the expense of country elevator stocks. Prospects for rain or snow over the corn belt tended also to stimulate buying.

Corn closed unsettled, ⅜-1⅜c higher; wheat, ¼ off to ½ up; oats at ⅛-¼ decline to ¼ gain, and provisions showing 7 to 15 cents advance.

Prospects of only a light movement of corn from rural sources were emphasized by indications that the bulk of current receipts in Chicago had been applied on to-arrive contracts. Likelihood that corn shipments from here at the opening of lake navigation would be fairly large counted also as a stimulus. Recent speculative sellers turned quickly to the buying side when the market started upward, and the close was at almost the day's top figures.

Commission house buying of corn future deliveries attained more volume than usual of late. Some of the purchasing was associated with an unofficial estimate that farm reserves in corn in the nine States having a surplus production would total 534,000,000 bushels, against 681,000,000 last year, and compared with a five-year average of 711,000,000. Corn primary receipts still bulked large, however, totaling 1,278,000 bushels, compared with 741,000 a week ago and 967,000 at this time last year.

Wheat responded to corn strength and to continued purchases of July wheat simultaneously with sales of May. Offerings of July were scarce until that delivery rose to 65 cents. Earlier the market ruled weak, owing to rain or snow, expected to become general over the American winter and spring wheat belts, and because of wheat primary receipts more than double those of a year ago. A cut of 2½c a bushel in quotations on Australian cargoes at Liverpool tended also temporarily to unsettle confidence of buyers. Liquidation by holders of March contracts made the oats market uneven.

Packers' buying and hog market upturns strengthened provisions.

Curb Review

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—An irregularly higher tendency in the utility division imparted a fairly steady tone to the curb market today.

Price movements throughout the day were mixed and uncertain, but as the utility group is a dominant part of this market, the general list held up relatively better than the big board.

Utility shares were bid up in response to the veto of the Muscle Shoals bill, which was upheld by the Senate. This bill provided for Government operation of the hydroelectric power plant, which private power interests naturally regarded with extreme disfavor.

Strength in the electric power issues was not well maintained, however. Electric Bond & Share and United Light "A" each rose 2 points, then reacted to close only fractionally higher. American Gas & Electric closed up ¾, and American Superpower and Associated Gas "A," ½. Eastern States Power "B" gained 2 net.

Oils eased in response to the weekly petroleum statistics, showing a gain of some 1,000,000 barrels in gasoline stocks on hand. Humble and Vacuum lost about a point, and Gulf, Indiana and Kentucky sagged fractionally.

A good domestic demand for copper buoyed some of the red metal shares. United Verde Extension came out of inactivity with a ½ point rise, and Newmont gained about a point. Noranda, however, eased slightly.

Industrials were mixed. Cooper, Bessemer & New Haven Clock dropped more than 2 points to new lows, the former influenced by omission of the dividend. Aluminum Co. lost 5, and Mead Johnson and Western Air Express, about 1. Firm spots were Stutz Motor and Tubize Chatillon, up 1.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 4 (A.P.).—A moderate opening advance in cotton today was checked by realizing which appeared to be combined with some Southern selling and local selling for reaction. The latter was probably promoted by indifferent Liverpool cables, but the offerings were absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions and after selling off from 11.30 to 11.32 May advanced to 11.44 in the late trading on a renewal of trade buying and covering. May closed at 11.43, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 10 to 12 points.

The opening was steady 2 to 5 points higher on overnight buying orders, which seemed to come partly from the trade and which was believed to include some buying for Japanese account. March sold at 11.14 and October at 11.90, making net advances of about 3 to 5 points on this initial demand, but there was considerable realizing and probably some selling for a reaction on a belief that the lifting of the Indian boycott had been discounted and that the technical position of the market was easier.

March sold off to 11.10 and October to 11.85, making net declines of about 1 to 2 points on the more active positions. There was no general or aggressive selling, however, and the comparatively light offerings were absorbed by scale-down buying which had the encouragement of the continued favorable reports from the textile trade, with the demand becoming more active during the last hour. March sold up to 11.20 and October to 11.98, and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best. Some of the early sellers seemed to be covering or rebuying on the late advance.

Part of the opening demand was attributed to reports of a continued active business in the domestic cloth market yesterday and of a good business pending in Manchester for shipment to India and China.

Liverpool cable advices, however, said that buying there had been supplied by selling on the easier ruling of Egyptian cotton and a belief that the settlement in India had been discounted. This may have contributed to reactionary sentiment here early, which, however, made little apparent impression on the market. Exports today, 30,873 bales, making 5,099,188 so far this season. Port receipts, 39,127. United States port stocks, 3,996,227.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 4.—February sales of the W. T. Grant Co. increased 11.08 per cent over the corresponding month last year, totaling $4,347,489 last month, compared with $3,913,591 in February, 1930. The total sales for January and February this year aggregated $8,457,955, an increase of 0.9 over the $7,697,202 reported for the corresponding months of 1930.

Officials of the Eaton Axle & Spring Co. said profits for January were the best in any month since last September and that preliminary figures for February indicate that it will show the highest monthly profit since last June. Shipments of the Wilcox Rich Corporation, subsidiary of Eaton Axle, during February, were the largest of any month since last June.

R. D. Matthews, executive vice president of Union Oil Co., of California, said that earnings for January were sufficient to cover the dividend requirements for that period and that although actual figures were not yet obtainable for February, he believed dividends were covered during that month.

It is authoritatively reported in Wall street that the annual report of General Foods Corporation, which will be made shortly, will show net income slightly less than the result of 1929. The company reported $19,422,313 for 1929, or $3.68 a common share. The 1930 report is expected to show only a few cents a share less.

Gurney E. Newlin, chairman of the preferred stockholders committee of Richfield Oil Co., of California, said today that in view of the fact that the valuation by the receiver in equity of the Richfield properties has not been completed, the committee did not have sufficient information to enable it to make any recommendation regarding the offer of Cities Service Co. to exchange its stock for Richfield preferred. Cities Service has offered two shares of preferred D and one share of common stock of Cities Service for five shares of Richfield preferred.

The world's visible supply of coffee, exclusive of the Brazilian interior stocks, amounted March 1 to 5,878,768 bags, the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange reports. This shows an increase of 425,534 bags over February 1, and is the largest total recorded since May, 1923.

ON THE SIDELINES

by BRIAN BELL

ANDY KERR, Colgate coach, and Pop Warner, Stanford mentor, have agreed that the defense in football is getting too strong.

"Every rule change in the last three years has been in favor of the defense. It is getting so the offense needs 12 men to be really effective," said Kerr, and Warner agreed.

"These days a coach has to be ready to play his men against four or five different defenses," Kerr continued.

He left an impression it was too much to expect a coach to defeat all of these defensive preparations.

But there are many coaches who will take the opposite side of the debate.

TWO men became involved in an argument during the playing of the Agua Caliente open golf tournament with the biggest purse of them all, $25,000, attracting some of the game's best talent. The argument cropped up over the middle name of Tommy Armour.

"His name is Thomas Dixon Armour," said one.

"Not at all," said the other. "It is Thomas Donaldson Armour."

"Bet you."

"Right, and we'll ask Tommy himself."

Tommy was located and the question put to him.

"You said my name was Dixon?" he asked the first bettor, and found instant agreement.

"You are right," said the P. G. A. champion, but as the man was about to demand the fruits of the wager, Tommy turned to the other.

"You said my name was Donaldson?" Again agreement.

"You are right," was the surprising statement.

"And if any one had bet it was Richardson he would be a winner, too. I have a lot of names, Thomas Dixon Donaldson Richardson Armour."

THE play of Roland MacKenzie, tall Washington lad, lately of Brown University and Wilmington, Del., in the Los Angeles open, stamps him as one to be reckoned with in amateur competition in 1931. It may be that the pleasant-faced MacKenzie will succeed Robert Tyre Jones, jr., to the amateur throne.

MacKenzie was the medalist at the amateur at Oakmont in 1925, flashing brilliant rounds of 71 and 74, two strokes better than either Bobby or the long hitting Jess Guilford could do.

He played for the United States against Great Britain in the Walker Cup matches of 1926, 1928 and 1930, but his play at Los Angeles was more consistent and built on a firmer foundation than at any time since he first began to attract attention in the ranks of the amateurs by qualifying for the championship in 1924. A year later he was the medalist.

IN his second round at the Wilshire Country Club, venue of the Los Angeles open, Roland played the course in par 70 on a day when some of the best pros in the business were admitting that Old Man Perfection was too much for them.

MacKenzie's playing companions for the round were Tommy Armour and Willie Hunter, two good pros who learned their game in the hard English and Scotch schools.

"He played much better golf than either Tommy or I," was Hunter's tribute.

"He's a real golfer."

The great and impatient galleries did not worry the amateur, although some of the professionals were frankly perturbed by the anxiety of the crowds to see every shot.

Twice with the big eighteenth green surrounded by massed thousands, the young star sent approach putts from great distances and difficult angles.

SOME of the longest putts developed in any recent competition were seen on this eighteenth green. The pin was placed at the far side of the long green, measuring all of 50 yards.

Tommy Armour walked up to the flag to survey the lay of the land after he had sent his second on the green, but far from the cup, and said later he took 42 paces.

"So I was all of 120 feet," said the Scot.

"That was the longest putt I ever tried to make in America. I have faced longer on the other side."

In the same threesome was Leo Diegel, who was 120 feet from the cup. Each of the stars took three putts to get down.

When Diegel galloped up to the green and saw the distance his ball was from the cup, he yelled:

"Where's the flag?"

THE Sonnenbergs, the Munns and the Georges have won another college man to the ranks of the wrestlers. John (Casey) Kazanjian, former husky guard at Stanford, has entered the mat game professionally. There are a number of former football players doing well on the mat.

About the time Kazanjian carried his 200 pounds and more into action, Glenn Edwards, big Washington State tackle, announced he would go in for boxing in a big way when his college course was left behind him.

Everything Edwards does is in a big way. He weighs in the neighborhood of 250 pounds and may be bigger after another season of football. He is a junior and will not throw dismay into the ranks of the boxers until he has finished playing tackle for the Cougars.

Armond Emanuel, the lawyer-boxer, is at a California ranch getting in shape for a comeback as a fighter. His fighting in 1930 did not please him and he returned to the practice of law. When 1931 brought a new year, it brought another opportunity to the big fellow and he has decided that the law can wait awhile until he has made a few more appearances in the ring.

Braves Yannigans Beat Regulars.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (A.P.). The Braves rookies gave Manages Bill McKechnie's regulars their second consecutive drubbing by a 11 to 7 score here today in a seven-inning contest. Cantwel' and Brandt hurled for the regulars and Cronin caught Cunningham and Frankhouse. Charlie Wilson was spiked near the knee and froced to quit the practice session.

Robin Regulars Drub Rookies, 33 to 3.

Clearwater, Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—Aided by some of Florida's March winds, the Brooklyn Robins found their batting eyes in more than midseason style today. The regulars fell upon three left-handers, Watson Clark, Joe Shaute and Gene Fisher, and won a seven-inning practice game from the "Tankers," 32 to 3. The regulars hit nine home runs, Herman and Frederick each getting two.

Stripp, of Reds, Down With Severe Cold.

Tampa Fla., March 4 (A.P.).—A decided drop in temperature and a shivering gulf wind today limited spring training activities at the Cincinnati Reds camp to one short workout, which consisted mainly of fungo hitting and light batting practice. Third Baseman Joe Stripp was confined to bed with a severe cold.

Giants Must Eat Lunch at Park.

San Antonio, Tex., March 4 (A.P.). John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, was an efficiency expert today and inaugurated a plan of having the team eat its lunch at the ball park. This will save the time required for a 2-mile trip back to their hotel.

Five young pitchers, Leroy Parmalee, Ray Lucas, Herb Pyle, Jim Tennant and Mike Bolaski, hurled the ball up for the batting practice.

SAYS PEGLER

an Irishman into the Jewish Hospital!"

A suit for libel may be started for a modest sum, say $25, and inasmuch as counsel for the defense usually instructs the defendant to cease firing until the action has been tried, the libel suit will be seen to be a convenient and inexpensive gag on embarrassing criticism.

I know it is a depraved attitude, seeming to incite the boys to unethical practices, but I must say that the fakes I have seen in the ring are among the prize-fights which I would least desire to have missed. I was only mildly stirred by the one between Eddie Shea and Charles Phil Rosenberg several years ago until, a few days later, it was revealed that Shea had gone into the water, as the term has it, because some boys had threatened to shoot him if he didn't. I then felt I had been present at an historic episode.

Prize fight jurisprudence is mysterious. In that case, Shea was barred from New York for years, but the boys who had threatened to shoot him suffered no impairment of their rights and prerogatives and continued to operate and still do.

The unconventional ending, whether by fakery or mishap, lifts the prize fight out of the routine classification and enshrines it in the memory, as in the case of Jack Sharkey's affair with Fainting Philip Scott in Florida last year. Here a very punk prize fight became one of the most amusing experiences of the year, with Scott snuffling and moaning from a series of slaps on the hip, the police blundering all over the ring looking for clues and Sharkey raging along the ropes, his face wet with tears and his shrill voice rising above the hubbub in shrewish imprecations. Those fouls saved the show as entertainment.

For sportsmanship and honest fighting, however, the customers have other and cheaper opportunities, such as the amateur bouts.

Hostile Move Thwarts Attempt at Holdup

What is believed to have been an attempted holdup was reported yesterday by Samuel F. Lane, 1205 Fifteenth street northwest. Mr. Lane said while he was getting into his automobile on Eighth street, near E, a man tried to force his way into the machine.

Mr. Lane slid out the door on the opposite side of the car and placed his hand on his hip as if to draw a gun. The man fled. Mr. Lane described him as 24 years old, 5 feet 10, weighing about 175 pounds. He wore a sweater and light trousers.

COUNCIL TO PUSH WASHINGTON PLANS

Arthur Orr Leads Plan to Combine Bicentennial Organizations.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County's preparation for and participation in the bicentennial celebration next year are to be worked out by a county "bicentennial council," on which all county-wide organizations and the officials of Arlington County will have representation, according to the terms of a resolution adopted last night by the Arlington County Civic Federation.

The resolution was presented by Arthur Orr, of Lyon Park, chairman of the committee on parks, planning and zoning, and was in the nature of a joint report of that committee and the committee on roads, streets and highways, of which Monroe H. Stockett, of Lyon Village, is chairman.

The report expresses the opinion that the matter of the county's participation in the bicentennial is "one properly to be determined by some agency which is thoroughly representative of the entire county," and that "it would be presumptuous for the Arlington County Civic Federation or any other single organization in the county to undertake the sole leadership in the matter."

The resolution provides that the president of the civic federation shall appoint a committee of five of which he shall be one, and that the committee be authorized to propose to the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce and other county-wide organizations the formation of "bicentennial council," consisting of five representatives of each such organization and five of the officials of the county, or five persons designated by them, such council to have full authority to formulate plans for the county's participation in the celebration.

Harry A. Fellows, president of the Civic Federation who by the terms of the resolution is a member of the committee announces the four other members as follows: Arthur Orr, Lyon Park; Monroe H. Stockett, Lyon Village; John C. Gall, Aurora Hills, and Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, Cherrydale.

Jouett Shouse, of Kansas, chairman of the National Democratic committee, is announced as the principal speaker at the tenth annual banquet of the Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., to be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon the evening of of March 11. Among other speakers will be former Gov. Cooper, of South Carolina.

Despite the fact that tonight in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse there is to be staged a mass meeting in protest to the working of convict labor on the Lee Boulevard, work in the construction of the camp is progressing.

It is understood that the camp, which is located at Barcroft on a 50-acre tract which has been leased to the State Highway Department by the owner, Walter O'Hara, will be ready to house the 100 convicts which will reach the county this week.

Discussing the opposition which has been raised in some sections of the county to the camp, Mr. O'Hara said: "I have built 52 homes in the Barcroft section and more are now in course of construction, and I have yet to find any of those who have purchased homes from me, and they have all been sold and are occupied, to raise any objection to the location of the camp.

"Instead of raising any objection to the use of convict labor on the boulevard, the citizens of Arlington County should do all in their power to cooperate with the State Highway department, as the construction of this boulevard means much in the future development of the county," Mr. O'Hara declared.

Meeting last night at Clarendon, the Arlington County Republican Club made plans for the holding of ladies night the later part of the month in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. Joseph MacPherson was elected chairman of a special committee in charge of the arrangements for the joint meeting.

President J. Foster Hagan announces the appointment of the following standing committees: Publicity—E. T. Cole, Louis A. MacMahon, and M. G. Ely; finance, L. C. McNemar, Carl A. Marshall and J. G. Peper; membership, C. W. Harris, W. W. Wright, J. E. Peters and L. Nicholson; social, J. MacPherson, G. F. Rollings, B. M. Hedrick, John Agnes.

Special Lenten services will be conducted tomorrow evening at St. George's Episcopal Church by the Rev. H. A. Donovan, rector of Zion Church at Fairfax. His subject will be "Consecration."

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the Galahad Club, of St. George's Episcopal Church will meet at the parish hall.

With the continued dry weather and citizens eager to clear away the trash around their property, Chief A. C. Scheffel, of the Arlington Fire Departments calls upon all persons burning trash to use care. He states that the records of his department for the past month show that many calls have been for brush fires.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Arlington Fire Department will be held Wednesday evening, March 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Collier.

The Arlington Rotary Club meets today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The neighborhood Garden Club will give a motion picture show in Mount Olivet Methodist Protestant Church the evening of March 20 to raise funds to beautify that part of the Glebe road extending from the Lee highway to Ballston. Markers are to be provided for places of interest along the highway.

The funds raised are to be divided between the organization and the church.

J. E. Spaulding, Republican county chairman, announces that there will be a special meeting of the county committee tonight in the Spaulding Building at Clarendon at 8 o'clock.

The meeting has been called, it is understood, to formulate plans for carrying on an extensive campaign in the interest of the election of the party's candidates to county offices at the November election.

The Arlington County Monarch Club meets today at 12 o'clock at Windsor Arms, on Glebe road.

A plate glass window in the jewelry store of Benjamin Cohen, 1114 King street, was discovered smashed about 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning by a neighbor, who telephoned police headquarters, and, upon investigation, it was found that jewelry to the value of about $200 had been taken from the show window.

The burglar is believed to have used a padded brick to deaden sound as he broke the window, but sustained cuts on the hand, as blood was found on the broken glass and on the sidewalk beneath the window. The articles listed by Mr. Cohen include three wrist watches, watch and chain and gold ring. Sergt. Padgett and Policeman Shoots responded to the call and found faint fingerprints on the glass.

Recent graduates in the standard first-aid course who have been elected to membership in Rescue Squad, No. 1, of the Alexandria Fire Department are: A. V. Brown, L. S. Evans, W. V. Wright, J. D. THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

STUDY IN NATURAL HISTORY.

(Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, zoo director, took a cobra with him in a sleeping car trip from New York to Washington.—News item.)

THE cobra is a funny snake,
He likes to travel far;
He's happiest when riding in
A Pullman sleeping car.

He likes the comforts of a berth
When he has had his supper,
And he is just as happy in
A lower as an upper.

He is a democratic sort
And not disposed to shun
The ordinary traveler—
He'll sleep with any one!

The cobra is a reptile odd,
And when the Pullman swerves
He doesn't mind it in the least,
Because he's full of curves.

HE never minds a berth at all
Because he is so eely
And, quite devoid of any bones,
He twists his body freely.

He gazes at the smallest berth
And worries not a minute
O'er how he'll sleep in such a space,
Or how he will get in it.

The cobra is a passenger
Whose railroad trips seem shorter
Because he's never, never awed
By any Pullman porter.

He never knows the slightest care
And berths seem quite a blessing
Because he never has to face
The problem of undressing.

The cobra is a lucky stiff
Who finds no berth confusin';
He never has to use that net
To put his socks and shoes in.

MAN FACES CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Edward Stewart Held for $3,000 Bond in Death of Roadhouse Host.

At a coroner's hearing at Marlboro, Md., last night Edward Stewart, of New York avenue near Ninth street northwest, was held for $3,000 bond for the action of the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Hillary Jackson, Negro proprietor of a road house near Woodward, Md.

Stewart through his attorney, J. Wilson Ryon and Elmer R. Hassall, waived a preliminary hearing.

Testimony brought out the fact that Stewart and two friends had just arrived at the roadhouse Saturday when Jackson, according to testimony said that he did not want to let them in, and demanded that they leave. It was said that he had been drinking. He fired a shot gun at the party before it was wrested from his hands by Stewart. The verdict said only that Jackson had come to his death from blows of a shot gun in the hands of Stewart. The hearing was held at Marlboro.

Owing to a protest by persons whose land would be included in the limits of Mount Rainier by the proposed extension of the town, the Legislature has amended the bill presented to them for the extension.

The original proposal was for the town to be enlarged to take in a territory about two blocks long by one and a half blocks wide on the north side of the town. According to a petition sent to the county delegation, this would include some land used entirely for farming.

The amended bill, however, will include a strip about 100 feet wide along Thirtieth street, which is what was wanted most by the town. This street was the boundary of the town, and was paved by assesaments levied against property owners on the town side of the street. Persons owning property on the other side had the benefit of the street, but were not liable for improvement assessments. This condition will be corrected if the amendments to the town charter are passed.

Persons who signed the petition against the original plan of extension were Mary L. Miller, Annie C. Hall, Ella H. Steele, Bernard C. Heitmuller, Bertha H. Kryz and Louise W. Heitmuller. "If the time should come when this property is subdivided and houses erected on the lots, the question of annexation with Mount Rainier might be properly considered," the petition admits.

Only five sentences were imposed in Hyattsville police court yesterday in one of the lightest days in the last year. The largest fine was one of $150 placed against Elmo J. Johnson, of Kenyon street near Georgia avenue northwest, for possession of liquor. He was also fined $10 on a charge of speeding brought by Claude Reese.

Harry Rosenberg was fined $50 for possession, as was George Young. Young was committed to jail in default of the fine. R. E. Brown arrested Young. Joseph Loenberger, of Thirty-fourth street northwest, near R street was fined $100 for driving while drunk. He was arrested by State Policeman C. W. Cubbage, who also placed a charge of reckless driving against him, on which he was fined $10 more. The fifth sentence was a fine of $5 placed against Arthur Chew, colored, of Bowie, for being drunk and disorderly.

A bill to authorize Colmar Manor to issue $80,000 in bonds for street improvements has been introduced in the legislature by Delegate William F. Keys, of Prince Georges County.

The measure provides that the bonds shall be paid off from funds derived from assessments against property owners whose lots abut the improved streets. The assessments are due over a period of thirteen years, beginning July 1, 1933. The interest on the bonds will also be paid by abutting property owners, in two installments beginning July 1, 1931.

Improvements may be made on any streets selected by the town government, but first consideration will be given to those streets a majority of whose residents have asked the paving. Owners of corner lots must pay the entire assessment on the front of their land, and half the assessment levied against the side. The bill also contains a provision for a referendum by voters of the town before the bonds may be issued.

World War veterans who are in need of quick loans on their bonus certificates may have the help and indorsement of Snyder-Farmer Post, No. 3, of the American Legion, if they apply to the clubrooms on Spencer street in Hyattsville.

Officials of the post will be at the office between 8 and 9 o'clock every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday night throughout this month. According to the veteran's bureau, applicants who are sponsored by service men's associations will get preferred attention in the granting of loans.

Decision to give this aid to veterans was reached at a special meeting of the executive committee of the post, which is composed of Commander Robert G. McCartee, Vice Commander W. T. Luman, Adjutant Orion R. Butler, Fred Rhem, Dr. Robert W. McCullough, Caesar L. Aiello, John H. Hiser, John A. Johnson, Carl W. Walzl, and E. J. Cannon.

Charged with the sale of an unregistered soft drink, Rex Ward, driver for a Washington bottling company, was arrested yesterday in front of the courthouse in Marlboro and held for $100 bond. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Allan Walker, State Food and Drug Inspector.

Held for the theft of 90 pounds of tobacco, two colored men are under bond of $500. The men are Clarence Wilson and Snowden Jones, both of Marlboro.

They were arrested yesterday at their homes by Lieut. Tom Garrison. They are accused of stealing the tobacco, which was stored in a barn, from Clarence Hall and Martin Clandford.

Headed by William T. Jennings, president of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce, a delegation from the chamber was present at a showing in Annapolis of the latest developments in the advertising of towns by means of color and sound motion pictures. BETHESDA HITS FIRE TAX ZONING

Montgomery County Citizens Would Oppose Losing Volunteer Firemen.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Preparation of a bill providing for inclusion of the Conduit road section in the Bethesda fire taxing area is being prepared. If the completed bill meets with the approval of the citizens of Glen Echo, Brookmont and Mohican Hills it will be submitted to the State Legislature for enactment into law.

The bill is being drawn in close accordance with the plan for unification which was suggested by O. P. M. Brown, president of the Bethesda Fire Board, when the question of annexation first became one of public interest. The fire board would have complete control over the firefighting facilities in the communities affected and the collection of the fire tax. A firehouse is proposed somewhere in the area to be protected, which will come under the jurisdiction of the Bethesda board.

Practically the only opposition to the bill has been evident among the members of the Cabin John Volunteer Fire Department, which feared disbandment, as it is believed the fire board will locate the additional firehouse nearer the District Line. The Cabin John Department is torn asunder with dissention at present, however, two factions having held separate meetings Monday night. The Cabin John Park Citizens Association, voted down a resolution opposing the bill and voted to refrain from taking any stand.

Glen Echo, Mohican Hills and Brookmont appear strongly in favor of the unification bill and Glen Echo Heights is divided on the subject.

The Rev. Thomas F. Opie, rector of the church of the Holy Comforter at Burlington, N. C., has accepted a call to St. Bartholomew's Church, Olney, Md. He has arrived with Mrs. Opie to assume his duties.

Dr. Opie, a native of Staunton, Va., is well known for his religious writings and also has written for the secular press. He was ordained as deacon in 1913 after he had been graduated from the Washington and Lee University and Virginia Seminary and received priest's orders in 1914. He served in parishes at Saltville and Pulaski, Va., and also several other parishes in North and South Carolina. He has served eight years in Burlington.

Dr. Opie organized a free kindergarten, a mission for the deaf, clinics for cripples and babies. He was prominent in civic circles, having been president of the County Sunday School Association, chairman of the county board of welfare, president of the Burlington pastor's association, an officer and director in the Kiwanis Club, State chaplain of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs, vice president of the State Prison Reform Association, a member of the North Carolina Citizens Library Commission, a member of the State Welfare Conference and a member of the State Committee of International Relations.

Mrs. Opie also was prominent in civic and charitable work in Burlington.

Mrs. Opie is a composer, pianist and singer and was leader in the choir of the Church of the Holy Comforter in Burlington. She recently organized a children's choir and was president of the Burlington Music Club and president of the Piedmont district of the Music Federation.

Leland L. Fisher has been elected president of the Holy Name Society of the St. Mary's Catholic Church, Rockville. Other officers elected were: Cramner Burck, vice president; William D. Aud, secretary; Albert M. Murphy, treasurer; Francis A. Posey, sergeant-at-arms; Louis J. Ryan, delegate to the quarterly convention, and the Rev. Charles R. O'Hara, pastor of the church, spiritual director.

William E. Morgan, retiring president, who was the first president of the branch, presided at the meeting, which was held in St. Mary's Parish Hall.

A total of 444 instruments was filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville in the month of February, according to the report of Preston B. Ray, clerk of the Circuit Court. They were divided as follows: 117 deeds, 102 mortgages and releases, 57 trusts and 168 bills of sale. A total of 70 resident anglers' licenses was issued. This represents a slight increase.

A new bridge near Twin Creek, Ark., is called Hoover Bridge because the President once surveyed a nearby peak, Pilot Knob.

An economy measure offered in the Texas Legislature would reduce the number of counties by 60 per cent.

IMPORTANT BILLS URGED AT ANNAPOLIS

New Milk and Game Laws Sought in Legislature; Sunday Baseball Asked.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 4.—A large number of bills, including several of State-wide importance, made their appearance in both the Senate and House today, but the greater portion of today's activities of the State's lawmakers was devoted to committee hearings on measures that must come up for action within the next few days, these including the bill designed to give jury service to women throughout the State and the measure to repeal theoperations of the Jim Crow law on common carriers within the State, including steamboats operating in Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Both of these bills originated in the House.

Among the more important bills to make their appearance were the following: Placing milk pasteurization in the State, outside of Baltimore City, under State control; recodification of the State game and fish laws and restricting the season and territory on wild fowl; additional means of providing aid for handicapped children, and a measure directed against the blue laws applicable to Washington County, which would permit the playing of professional baseball and other athletic games in that county on Sunday.

Restriction on Games.

Under its provisions baseball and various forms of athletics and recreation would be lawful between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of Sundays, provided they are not carried on within 100 yards of a church or other places where religious services are in progress.

That another effort will be made to have Armistice Day declared a legal holiday in the State became evident with the introduction of a bill by Delegate Henry L. Conway, Baltimore City. A like bill was before the Assembly two years ago, but was defeated after a bitter fight.

A bill presented by Chairman Edmonds, of the Montgomery County delegation, by request, provided that certain fees or commissions of mutual insurance companies in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, or in making investments for the companies, by their officers or direotors, shall not be classed as benefits.

Delegate Mulliken, Prince Georges County, started a movement designed to bring additional revenue to the State motor vehicle department. A bill offered by him would require all motor bus and truck companies not operating over fixed routes on State highways to have their vehicles equipped with Maryland tags. This proposed law would have particular effect upon transportation companies operating out of the District of Columbia, though it is designed as a State-wide measure.

The Prince Georges County delegation dropped into the House hopper a bill to give all women the right of suffrage in local elections in the town of Mount Rainier. The measure authorizes the mayor and city council to amend the town charter by dropping the word "male" from the section relating to voting qualifications.

The Prince Georges group offered another bill for the relief of the volunteer fire company at Riverdale. This measure provides for a tax levy of 10 cents on the $100 over period of four years to provide a fund to purchase a fire engine and equip the department of that town.

Billboard Curb Asked.

Senator Robert G. Hilton, Montgomery County, offered a measure placing restrictions against billboards along highways. The bill is similar in all respects to the House measure, which would require an annual license, an annual tax based upon square footage, and lay down restrictions upon the placing of such signs. A hearing is to be given on the House bill tomorrow, and large delegations of women's organizations, who have been waging an active campaign against billboards are expected here to voice their support of the bill.

Indications that a fight is brewing in the Senate against the "snoopers bill," which has already passed the House came today when the measure was brought out on the floor, and after some debate, was made a special order of business for tomorrow. The bill eliminates informers' fees in criminal actions.

Belled Buzzard Returns.

Hagerstown, Md., March 4 (Special).—The belled buzzard, famous old bird in these parts, turned up today and every one was satisfied that spring was just around the corner. The bird, with a bell arcund his neck, has been coming back to this valley each spring for the past 25 years. Lesher Kreps saw the buzzard and heard the bell while driving near Woodpoint this morning.

AVERAGE LIFE MADE LONGER IN VIRGINIA

Health Survey Points Out Lack of Physicians in Country Districts.

Richmond, Va., March 4 (A.P.).—The average life of Virginia is being made longer, the rural health survey of the State just completed by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce says.

In 1913, the survey found, 20 per cent of all deaths in the State occurred before the individual reached the age of 1 year. Since 1921, however, the report said there has been a distinct improvement in the figure. In 1922 it dropped to 17.3, and in 1928 it had reached 14.2, the lowest in the records of the State.

The report asserts that the number of deaths before the age of 5 has decreased since 1913 from 28.3 to 19.1, and deaths before the age of 20 from 40 to 25.1. Those dying before the age of 35 totaled 49.2 per cent in 1913, but now the total is only 35.5, and at the age of 45 the same comparison showed 44 per cent had replaced the old figures of 57.6.

Lack of Physicians.

In 1913 65.6 per cent of the people never saw the age of 55, but in 1928 the figures were 55.1. At 65 75.6 were dead and 86.9 per cent had died before reaching 75. In 1928, however, the figures were 68.2 and 83.1.

The report points out the lack of physicians in the country districts of Virginia. "There are in Virginia about 2,089 physicians in addition to specialists; only 1,051 of these live outside the cities," it says. "This is slightly over one-half of the total number. The committee on the costs of medical care, a body which made national studies of this condition, attributed this concentration of doctors in cities to two reasons: Doctors are less attracted to the country because of the lack of social and economical advantages, and country dwellers are inclined to favor the city doctor.

"In addition to this concentration of physicians in the city we also find that the young doctor is usually to be found in the urban center, the older physician being proportionately better represented in the country.

Number in Country.

Out of 404 doctors over 60 years of age, 279 or 69 per cent are in the country, while out of 147 physicians who are under 30 years of age, only 38 or 26 per cent are found in the country. It will be suggested that most of those under 30 are internes. This is only a partial explanation. A more valid one is that laboratory facilities and wealth incline the young man to the city. This explanation is confirmed by national studies and trends in location.

"One county in Virginia has but two physicians, four counties have three, and eight have but four, six have five, more than half—fifty-three—of the counties each have less than ten.

"Of the 2,089 physicians in Virginia, 120 or 5.7 per cent are Negro. Over three-fourths of these are located in cities. Norfolk and Richmond each claim 50 Negro doctors, or more than 40 per cent of the State total. Henry County has 3 and Nottoway 2, while 22 other counties each have 1. All but four of these are in southern, or Tidewater Virginia."

Fish Are Being Placed In Maryland Streams

Special to The Washington Post.

Grantsville, Md., March 4.—The Savage River and other Garrett County streams have just been stocked with about 700 trout from 10 to 12 inches in length, by A. M. Powell, Lewiston, Md., member of the State conservation department, and David D Price, Frostburg, general manager of the Cumberland & Westernport Transit Co.

According to Mr. Powell, about 7,000 fish will be shipped to Garrett County soon to stock major streams. Savage River is to be stocked with brook trout in accordance with an application for same made by Charles D. Gover, Frostburg, to the State department.
